U. S. WILL CURB RAILWAY MOLOCH

Records of Accidents Stir the Nation; President Seeks Remedy for This Situation.

HUGE DEATH TOLL PAID.

Hours of Labor on Roads Too Long; Safety Neglected; Restrictive Legislation Is Planned.

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—The perils of the road for the traveling public are to cease if the program adopted by the administration shall prove effective. The appalling number of victims which the railroads' minotaur has exacted has led the president carefully to consider a way to curb its voracious appetite. The result probably will be a strong recommendation in his forthcoming annual message that legislation be enacted which will permit the federal government to make investigations of accidents affecting interstate trains.

Edwin W. Moseley, secretary of the interstate commerce commission, who is known throughout the country for his interest in devising means for the protection of life and limb on the rails, said today that in those states which have not machinery for a careful investigation of railroad accidents congress should authorize the interstate commerce commission to make such investigation, so that full information can be obtained as to causes and responsibility. In some states investigations of accidents are made by coroner's inquests; in others they are intrusted to the railroad commissions. Secretary Moseley thinks the Wisconsin railroad commission is especially well equipped to make inquiries into accidents.

States' Neglect Forces Action.

"If we bear in mind," said Mr. Moseley, "that a great deal of our legislation has resulted from the inactivity or unwillingness of the states to do their duty, we can better understand why there has been federal intervention and the need for it. In many instances the states have been absolutely supine. If all the states had a law requiring every car to be equipped in accordance with the provisions of the national safety appliance law you would see a tremendous reduction in the number of accidents. But if the states won't take action to protect the lives of their own citizens, then it becomes naturally the duty of the federal government to look after citizens making interstate journeys."

"That there is grave need of protective legislation is shown by the reports in regard to accidents issued by the interstate commerce commission for the last eight years. From 1900 to 1907, inclusive, there have been killed 27,744 and injured 406,248. The great majority of the killed and injured were men and women in the prime of their usefulness. The casualties represent almost a total loss to the country, as many of the injured were so badly hurt that they were unable to pursue their avocations.

Roll of Dead and Injured.

The number of accidents in each year is as follows:

Year.	Killed.	Injured.
1900	2,700	42,371
1901	2,957	46,130
1902	2,819	29,800
1903	3,554	45,977
1904	3,787	51,343
1905	3,798	55,466
1906	4,225	66,709
1907 (nine months)	3,805	57,452
Totals	27,744	348

The number of passengers killed s... injured was much less than that of r... employés. Of the grand total 3,0... assengers were killed and 61,793 injure... about 25,000 employés were killed and ... injured. It is confidently expected that ... the law fixing the hours of labor for rai... employés goes into effect next spring t... will be a great falling off in the number of accidents among employés. The long hours employés now have to labor cause them, through fatigue, to fail to observe or to misinterpret a signal and a collision follows. It would seem that the railroads themselves would take action to prevent collisions, derailments, etc., not only because it would save them from paying damage claims, but also because of the great loss they suffer through the destruction or damage sustained by their equipment. It is estimated that in the last eight years the monetary loss suffered by the railroads as a result of accidents reaches the enormous sum of $75,000,000.

If that amount of money had been laid out in the development and use of safety appliances, the railroads would be in a better condition today than they are, and, of far greater importance, the country would still possess the brain and brawn of the many who have been sacrificed to their negligence.

Test Safety Appliance.

Under authority granted by the last congress the interstate commerce commission is making a thorough test of safety appliances. The actual work is being done by a board of experts. For some weeks past this board has been examining a number of inventions which have been submitted to it, eliminating those of a crank character or which it is apparent cannot be of any value. The appliances selected for trial will be attached to trains and thoroughly tested. The railroads have informed the commission of their desire to coöperate with the board and have expressed a willingness to furnish trackage and equipment.

It is hoped that the board will be able to make a preliminary report some time next winter for the use of congress. The safety appliances have no connection, however, with the block signal system, which fixes a space rather than a time interval between trains, and a determined effort will be made to have enacted a bill compelling the general adoption of this system. Only about one-fifth of the railroads of the country are equipped with it—a condition which the interstate commerce commission for years has endeavored to have rectified.

It is probable the railroads will oppose any legislation which will require heavy expenditures by them, even though the result would be greater protection for life, limb, and property. Nevertheless, it is believed the sentiment of the country for safe travel will be so unmistakably expressed that congress will not hesitate to pass the necessary legislation.

North Barrington, Mass., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—In a collision between a train going at the rate of sixty miles an hour and an automobile, driven by a deaf man, and said to have been running at an even greater speed, three persons were killed and two others seriously injured at Ashley Falls, near here, tonight.

The Dead.

ROOT, CHARLES J., of Bristol, manufacturer and wealthy mine owner.
ROOT, MRS. JOEL, mother of Charles J.
ROBERTS, MISS CANDACE, sister of Mrs. Root.

The Injured.

ROOT, MISS MARY, sister of Charles J., president of the Vassar College alumnæ and leader in D. A. R. work in the state; perhaps fatally hurt; removed to hospital at Pittsfield.
ROOT, MISS KATHERINE, aged 14, daughter of Charles J.; knocked unconscious and internally injured.

All of the members of the party, with the exception of the little girl, were deaf, and it is thought probable that they did not know of the approach of the train. The members of the train crew, however, doubt this theory and claim that, as the road ran parallel to the tracks for a great distance at this point, Mr. Root saw the danger, but thought he had time to get across the tracks.

Had Choice of Two Perils.

Another theory to account for the crash is that Mr. Root realized the peril and attempted to cross the track as a last resort, as the road takes a short bend there, and had Mr. Root held his course, the machine would have struck a high bank, throwing the occupants back on to the railroad.

The crew of the express train say the machine had been racing the engine for several minutes before the crash came. At the bend the auto swerved swiftly and crashed squarely into the tender of the engine. The auto literally was torn to pieces and parts were carried for yards down the track.

The train was stopped as soon as possible and the crew went back to the place of the accident. Two of the victims, Mr. Root and his aunt, were found dead beside the track and the others were put aboard and hurried to Pittsfield, but Mrs. Root died before reaching the city.

Youngest Victim May Recover.

Miss Mary Root was taken to a hospital, where it was found that her skull had been fractured and that she had sustained many other serious injuries. It is not thought that she will recover. The other victim, Miss Katherine, was taken to the home of friends, and it is said that she will recover.

The curve where the accident occurred is a bad one and several serious crashes have been made there. It is left unguarded at all times, although autoists have made many protests against the unsafe conditions there.

Auto Skids; One Badly Hurt.

Lake May, N. J., Aug. 18.—Prof. Howard T. Marsteller, principal of the Pleasantville, N. J., schools, was probably fatally injured today when an automobile in which he was riding skidded and struck a telegraph pole.

Three Hurt at Embankment.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 18.—John H. Hook and his two sons, William and Henry, of Lancaster, Pa., were almost killed today in an automobile accident near Pleasantville. The machine was destroyed by fire after falling twenty feet over an embankment.

Charles Young, who was driving the car, has disappeared. It is said that he fell asleep and allowed the machine to jump the embankment. The Hooks were thrown violently to the ground and the father, who is a paralytic, was internally hurt. The sons were bruised and cut.

Auto Hits Buggy; Six Hurt.

Boone, Ia., Aug. 18.—In a collision between an auto and a buggy here tonight six persons were injured, two of them seriously.

Machine Turns Over on Two.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 18.—W. McKeown of Washington, Pa., and Miss Emma R. Quinn of Bradford were seriously hurt in an automobile accident at Sunnyside today. The steering gear failed and the machine turned turtle while going swiftly down a hill.

Two Dead; Five Hurt on Boat.

Tiverton, R. I., Aug. 18.—A gasoline tank in a thirty foot motor boat in the Spaconnet river exploded tonight, causing the death of two persons and seriously injuring five others. The boat contained fourteen young people who had been on a trip to Newport from Fall River and had stopped at Tiverton on their return. George Antuya and Lydia Mercier were killed. The injured are suffering from severe burns. Ambulances were summoned from Fall River to the boat to convey the injured to the hospital in that city.

Joseph Chouinard, who was in charge of the boat, performed heroic work in keeping several of the young women afloat until rescuers reached them, although he was himself suffering severely from burns.

Denver Archæologist Discovers Six Story Building Overlooking Colorado Canyon.

Denver, Colo., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—A. J. Flynn, vice president of the Denver Archæological society, has made a wonderful discovery in the cliff dweller region of southwestern Colorado, it being a palace of six stories in a good state of preservation. It is one of the largest and most perfect buildings yet found among these ruins. It is constructed of blocks of stone more regularly cut than those found in the average cliff dwelling. It is picturesque in appearance and when the shrubs have been cut away and its front made clear it will command a view of the entire cañon in which it stands.

PEACEFUL BILL, THE SECRETARY OF WAR, STARTS ON HIS TRIP AROUND THE WORLD.

WOMEN INSULTED BY HOPKINS

Dubois Says Senator's Support of Smoot Was Affront to Them.

URGES FIGHT AGAINST HIM.

New Law for War on Mormons Sought by Idaho Statesman.

Aurora, Ill., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—That Senator Hopkins of Illinois "has done more to degrade the American woman than any other American ever has done," was the charge made by Senator Dubois of Idaho in an address before the Aurora Chautauqua assembly today.

The denunciation was the result of Hopkins' support of Reed Smoot in the Utah senator's recent fight to prevent being unseated in congress, and was made while Dubois was commenting on a recent article in the Hamiltonian, praising the Illinois statesman.

Dubois continued: "The article says polygamy is a thing of the past in Utah. Polygamy is not a thing of the past in Utah. It is like a great ulcer and has been worse in Utah the last seventeen years than in all the history of Mormonism."

Suggests Women Fight Hopkins.

Senator Dubois suggested the women of Illinois should work against the reëlection of Hopkins to the United States senate. His remarks created a sensation in the audience and there was a mixture of applause and hisses.

An amendment to the constitution, giving the government a better weapon to stamp out polygamy, especially as practiced among the Mormons, was urged by Senator Dubois of Idaho in an address to the chautauqua assembly this afternoon.

Senator Dubois claimed that a national law against unlawful cohabitation would place this power in the government's hands, and said that the present statute against polygamy is useless because evidence cannot be secured for the prosecution.

Mormons Hard to Convict.

"You cannot convict the Mormons," said he, "of polygamy. To prove polygamy you must prove a second marriage. Plural marriages among the Mormons are performed by high officials of that church in secret places, either in their temples or in foreign countries, and no record is kept of the plural marriages.

"Unlawful cohabitation can be proven by circumstantial evidence, the Supreme court of the United States having defined unlawful cohabitation to be the holding out to the world, by a man, of more than one woman as his wife.

"A law against unlawful cohabitation, if the enforcement were in the hands of the federal authorities, would put the leaders of the Mormon church in the penitentiary and this would destroy their political power and destroy polygamy. They exercise their political power in order to protect themselves in their polygamy, and when they found that they had to go to the penitentiary or give up polygamy they would give up polygamy, and with it their political power would disappear.

Power in Western States.

"The Mormons absolutely control Utah politically, and the United States senator, governor, or congressman cannot be elected in Idaho or Wyoming against the wishes of the Mormon church. They are a great balance of the power in Oregon and will soon control the senators in that state.

"They also are beginning to be powerful in Nevada and unless checked will become the balance of power in the senate of the United States. They have become an object of solicitude to the great political parties, and for the first time in the history of the government this Mormon and polygamist question is becoming a question of partisan politics."

NIGHT OF TERROR TO SHIPS; FOG HIDES DYNAMITE CARGO.

Vessel with 600 Tons of Explosive Bound for Colon Throws Crews on Delaware River in Panic.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 18.—Six hundred tons of dynamite on board the British steamship, Westhampton, bound for Colon and a heavy fog on the Delaware combined to throw sailors on the river and bay into a panic early today.

It was sighted about 2 o'clock yesterday morning from Reedy island in the Delaware and from that point all following vessels were warned of the floating mine ahead of them.

The minute the news reached a ship its rate of speed would be lowered and the fog horn started going at a lively rate. Many vessels stopped altogether and only started again on receiving an exact description of the ship, its probable speed and location.

Shipowners in the city who got wind of the danger to their vessels kept the wires to Delaware breakwater and Reedy island humming with inquiries as to the whereabouts of their cargoes. Even after the fog questions did not cease and it was not until the merchants had been assured that their ships could not possibly have been blown up that they ceased their inquiry.

It was reported by several boats that the night had been one of great terror for the men. Double watches had been kept until morning and many of the sailors refused to turn in at all.

MAN MURDERED IN AN ALLEY; POLICE SEEKING FOR CLEWS.

Filippe Ferreo, Shot Dead, Said to Have Paid Attentions to Married Woman, Who Has Disappeared.

Dying from a bullet wound in the forehead, Filippe Ferreo, 32 years old, was found lying in a runway leading to an alley in the rear of the house where he lived, at 143 Gault court, late yesterday afternoon.

He was rushed to the Polyclinic hospital, where an effort was made to get a statement as to the identity of his assailant, but he died without giving any clew.

Further mystery is added to the murder by the disappearance of Mrs. Baergel Anselino, 30 years old, and her husband and child, who lived next door, at 141 Gault court. Ferreo was said by neighbors to have paid marked attentions to the woman. Police, under acting Inspector Barcal of the Chicago avenue station, are inclined to the theory that the woman may know something about the murder.

METEOR'S PLUNGE INTO SEA SENDS TIDAL WAVE ASHORE.

Residents at Amagansett, Long Island, Scared by Dive of Roaring Blazing Mass Into Water.

New York, Aug. 18.—All out of doors at Amagansett, L. I., were startled this evening when they heard a terrific roar and at the same time saw a blazing mass shooting through the heavens over the ocean apparently only a little way out from shore. The hissing roar which was emitted from the rapidly moving ball was deafening, while the blazing object appeared to be about twenty feet in diameter.

Those who saw it say the meteor, for such it was, must have weighed several tons. When it struck the ocean it caused an upheaval of the waters.

Huge breakers came tumbling shoreward. Several bathing pavilions were washed away and fishermen's nets were torn from their moorings, while considerable damage was caused to property along the ocean front. Great numbers of dead fish were swept in.

SHAW SCOFFS AT HARD TIMES

Former Treasury Man Bares Vast Prosperity of Country.

BOGIES MAY HURT NATION.

He Shows Causes of Former Troubles; Suggests a Check.

New York, Aug. 18.—[Special.]—An effectual stopper was clapped over the cries of calamity mourners and "hard times" prophets of the country by a statistically argumentative interview today authorized by Leslie M. Shaw, former secretary of the treasury, now president of the Carnegie Trust company. Regarding the present financial and industrial conditions he said:

"Our farms produce more than $6,500,000,000 per annum, and the prospect is good for an average crop. Our mines yield more than $1,500,000,000, and our forests more than $1,000,000,000. And neither of these sources of wealth has been exhausted. The output of our factories, in other than food products, is $12,000,000,000, and no fires have been extinguished. The railways earn more than $2,000,000,000, and they are all in successful operation. The pay rolls of our factories and railways aggregate approximately $3,500,000,000, and the scale of wages has not been reduced.

Wealth Source Not Affected.

In other words, the real sources of the people's wealth have not yet been affected, and the ability of industrial concerns to pay dividends is not measured by the market price of their stocks. Logical reasons for serious conditions are therefore wanting. Psychological reasons are never wanting.

"If I judge correctly, the people will have exactly what they expect. If those who have money in the banks withdraw it and lock it up; if the banks refuse to grant accommodations, and if the consuming public decline to place orders, then we will soon witness the effects. Let those who think that times of disaster follow each other at regular intervals bear in mind that this country never yet experienced a period of severe depression that was not traceable to financial or economic agitation or legislation, and usually to both.

Explains Financial Setback.

"In 1893 the redemption of greenbacks in silver instead of gold was openly advocated; the party in power was under promise to remove the protective tariff from our industries, and the free coinage of silver at the ratio of sixteen to one was championed by prominent members of both parties. The country might have survived any one of these sources of alarm, but it could not survive all three.

"At this time no one questions our financial system, and the tariff will not be touched for at least eighteen months.

"Some check in the speed at which we are going is most desirable, and the checking process has probably begun. It will but require a fair measure of confidence and courage to prevent undue retardment in our industries. Capital cannot be forced into activity, but it can be forced out of activity. I have never seen the time when universal sanity was more essential to our well being."

TRIES TO SAVE HAT; LOSES LIFE.

Racine Man Jumps from Street Car When Head Covering Blows Off and Is Killed.

Kenosha, Wis., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Steve McCloskey, aged 24, of Racine, today gave up his life in an effort to save a straw hat. McCloskey was riding on the platform of a street car and his hat blew off. Without seeking to stop the car, he jumped after the hat and fell on a brick pavement. His skull was fractured.

WOULD PUT LABOR IN HIGH FINANCE.

Small Raises His Figure for Proposed Strike Fund from $2,000,000 to $20,000,000.

FEDERATION TO GIVE AID.

Moral Issue Raised by Women Telegraphers Is Likely to Be Pressed Vigorously.

President Sylvester J. Small of the International Commercial Telegraphers' union made his public appeal yesterday for funds to carry on the fight against the telegraph corporations.

He went much further. He favored the raising of an immense fund of from $10,000,000 to $20,000,000 to be used by the united labor forces of the country in conducting any just strike. This last proposition probably will be taken up by the board of directors of the American Federation of Labor, meeting today in Washington.

The day was devoid of action in the strike. President Small said he was preparing for a struggle that might last ninety days. Five hundred unmarried telegraphers prepared to camp out at the Desplaines camp meeting grounds, where they said they can subsist—in tents—for 15 cents a day per capita.

"Moral Issue" to Be Pushed.

The newly raised "moral issue" between women operators and the telegraph companies was seized upon at the massmeeting of telegraphers and union sympathizers at Brand's hall in the afternoon and placed above the shorter workday and even the demanded increase in wages. Unless the female contingent of the strikers' organization changes its plans a committee of two or more young women operators probably will carry to Miss Helen Gould personally the evidence which the women say they have against various officials of the company.

Mr. Small addressed himself to the Chicago Federation of Labor in the afternoon in the Open Board of Trade building and insisted that the battle of the striking telegraphers was the cause of every organized workman. Following his speech the federation adopted a resolution providing for the moral and financial support of the striking telegraphers.

It was not a direct appeal nor an appeal for immediate response, but Mr. Small again declared he expects to raise $2,000,000 within the next sixty days for a war fund, and when the time comes he would expect the Federation of Labor to assist the Commercial Telegraphers' union financially as well as morally.

Expects Business to Help

He said he did not expect to collect the entire $2,000,000 from the ranks of organized labor, but expects to put the conditions of the striking telegraphers before the business men of the country in such a light that they, too—barring the business men identified closely with the trusts—will put their hands down in their pockets and aid the telegraphers in a financial way.

"I have noticed," he said, "that whenever the printers or the textile workers or the teamsters or the hod carriers or any other union men become involved in a fight they always are short of funds, as the telegraphers are in this struggle. They are compelled to ask the federation of labor or other allied unionists for financial assistance. On the other hand, when the employers of labor enter a fight, when the capitalists combine against the laboring men, they have millions in the fund.

Wants at Least $10,000,000.

"This is what I propose: That at the next meeting of the American Federation of Labor—its directors will meet tomorrow in Washington—a proposition be presented in favor of a fund of from $10,000,000 to $20,000,000 to be devoted to the defense and interest of every union workman in this country.

"I feel that if we were to raise such a fund there would be no need of these pernicious methods of raising money by means of ball games, raffles, and the like every time we need to defend some of our ranks who may unjustly be in prison.

"If they had such a fund as this at their back the printers would have not been obliged to spend more than $100,000, instead of the $4,000,000 they actually expended, for the employers of the country would be exceedingly careful of engaging in a controversy with united labor supplied with unlimited funds."

The hall was crowded with perspiring labor delegates who applauded the big strike fund proposition vigorously.

President Small went into the history of the five year old telegraphers' union, reverting to the disastrous strike of twenty-five years ago which was lost by the telegraphers. It took twenty years for the operators to get back into line with organized labor, but in the present fight, he said, they are putting up a front that is astonishing the world. The telegraph companies, he added, are about ready to capitulate.

Russell Attacks the Companies.

Grand Secretary Wesley Russell of the telegraphers, and Michael J. Reidy, a member of the national executive board, also spoke.

"Thirty-five years ago," said Mr. Russell, "the average wages of a telegrapher was $100 a month. It gradually has declined until up to last March it was $75 a month and the 10 per cent increase that then was secured the companies evaded by the operation of the sliding scale.

"We have some money and we may need more. We understand the game. This fight in this city is not led by the youthful element, but by men of from ten to twenty-five years' service with the company and occupying responsible positions."

He advised the federation to send its ablest speakers to cities where the strike is on to encourage the telegraphers.

"Col. Clowry of the Western Union," said Mr. Reidy, "declared the time would come when first class operators could be secured for $50 a month. This is not an offensive, but a defensive organization. We come to you with confidence that you will help us in the future. You, who taught us to creep, must give us a lift now."

Strain Is Telling on the Men.

At the Brand's hall meeting it was apparent that the strain of the week-and-a-half's strike was telling on many of the men. The determination of the women, however, appeared only to have been aroused by the many hours of idleness. They appeared at the hall clad in the Sunday attire and prepared to take such part as was necessary in the day's program.

The meeting lasted from 1:30 until nearly 6 p. m. National Secretary Wesley Russell, Frank Likes of the national executive board, and Louis F. Post, former member of the board of education, spoke on the strike situation. But it was not until Mrs. Beatrice Hulen, a young operator who recently has become a leader of the women, stepped upon the platform that the strikers became really enthusiastic. Then, as she told of conditions of the workers, they jumped on their chairs and shouted.

She mentioned by name J. C. Barclay and others who are denounced in the petition to Helen Gould and reiterated the charges against them. While she was speaking the memorial in which all of these points were set forth at length was circulated among the women and hundreds of names were penciled beneath it.

Frank Likes read many communications from strikers in other sections of the country which purported to show how complete is the general tieup.

Wesley Russell was cheered when he reported that at the afternoon meeting of the Chicago Federation of Labor financial and moral support had been unanimously voted to the strikers.

Preparing for a Long Fight.

"Commencing tomorrow," President Small said, "we will settle down to a steady, long fight. We have made up our minds to prepare for a sixty day, and, if necessary, a ninety day fight. The telegraph companies apparently are desirous of making it a decisive battle and we are prepared to meet them. I have always taken the position that once a strike has been entered upon it must be to a finish.

"A peculiar situation confronts the leased wire people at this time. The rates agreed upon by the two companies to brokers, press associations, and other private concerns are out of all proportions, so high in fact that many lessees of wires have transferred their business to the telephone companies. This, however, did not bring relief, as the Mackay companies secured a controlling interest in the Bell Telephone company about eight months ago, which brought the prohibitive leased wire rates back to a former prohibitive rate.

Restrictions on Leased Wires.

"The combination between the two large commercial companies not only fixes a prohibitive rate to board of trade members, but also dictates what kind of business they shall handle on the wires. When I was in San Francisco and the strike was on, the Western Union company went to the extreme of dictating the verbiage of the news items that should be sent out on the strike situation. Queries from the east for news of a certain nature unfavorable to the company's position were held up until too late for use. We have the proof of this."

Last week was a peculiarly quiet one, from a business point of view, at the offices of the two telegraph companies, but Sunday was a record breaker for lack of business. Such a thing as sending a telegram, apparently, did not occur to Chicagoans.

As far as could be learned there was no change in the working force of the main offices of the companies. Only two policemen were on guard in the street in front of the Western Union building and they could find nothing to interest them in the few passersby.

"The only change in the situation is that I am getting caught up in my sleep," said General Superintendent Cook of the Western Union. "The strike is just a matter of waiting until the men have returned to their work."

Striking telegraphers received the entire gate receipts for the afternoon and evening at Luna park and one-fifth of the receipts of the concessions. The day netted the strike fund, it was estimated, nearly $3,000.

WOULD REVOKE WIRE CHARTER.

Striking Operators' Strategy Chief to Put It Up to New York Attorney General.

New York, Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Arrangements have been made by Daniel R. Russell, chairman of the board of strategy of the striking telegraphers to call on Attorney General Jackson tomorrow morning and present to him a formal demand that he take under consideration the revocation of the charter of the Western Union Telegraph company.

Mr. Russell bases the claims of the operators for consideration on the charge, which, he says, he is prepared to prove, that the Western Union Telegraph company is not complying with the law in that its officers are sending dispatches by train and by telephones, and they are not sending them by telegraph wires, as called for by their charter.

The broker operators seem to be having things pretty much their own way and are fighting out their own salvation regardless of the orders of the "leaders," saying that they do not know who is "the leader" to obey. But the "leaders" again today threw out another ultimatum to the brokers in Wall street and its vicinity that all of the operators in the financial district whose employers have not signed the new contracts with them will walk out at noon tomorrow. Operators who work in these offices said today that there would be no general walking out.

There was a largely attended massmeeting of the strikers in Manhattan Lyceum this afternoon. Much enthusiasm was shown and the leaders predicted a speedy settlement of the strike, with glory to all who had gone out. President Ahearn announced at the meeting that a number of strikers had been added to the ranks and that 90 per cent of the telegraphers in the United States are now out. This does not tally with the statements made by the officials of the two telegraph companies, who say they have all the men they want and that their business is rapidly getting back to normal.

Neill Gives Up Hope of Peace.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—While no positive information on this point can be obtained it is understood that Charles P. Neill, United States commissioner of labor, has practically given up hope, at least for the present, of effecting through arbitration or mediation a settlement between the striking telegraphers and the telegraph companies.

SICK STRIKER ATTACKS DOCTOR

Physician Said to Have Had Arm Broken by Operator Suffering from Some Delusion.

F. D. Terrill, one of the striking telegraph operators, living at 2755 Wayne avenue, early yesterday morning is alleged to have assaulted Dr. R. Waldmeyer, who had been summoned by Terrill's family to treat him. Waldmeyer received a number of scalp wounds and his left arm was broken.

Terrill, who was arrested by the police, is believed to have been suffering from some delusion as the assault was unprovoked.

Dr. Waldmeyer was summoned to the Terrill home shortly after 3 o'clock in the morning. Terrill was apparently bereft of his senses and when the physician sought to sooth him the telegraph operator seized a chair and attacked the doctor. The physician escaped and summoned the police from the Summerdale station.

Soon after he went out on strike Terrill contracted a cold which developed into pneumonia, attended by delirium.

"I think that my husband became temporarily delirious through nervousness and the loss of sleep. He did not worry over the outcome of the strike, always maintaining that they would win in the end," said Mrs. Terrill.

FOUR "L" LOOPS AS CRUSH RELIEF

Suggestion Made by Engineer to Overcome Congestion in Downtown Traffic.

BUSSE SEEKING REMEDY.

Plans Presented in Response to 'Tribune' Editorial; May Extend Market Street Stub.

Energetic measures to relieve the extraordinary congestion on the elevated loop are under consideration by Mayor Busse and his advisers. As a result of the agitation and the interest in the solution of the problem being taken by the mayor, the city council's committee on local transportation will be instructed to take up the matter at its first meeting after the summer vacation.

When the aldermen meet they will have before them numerous plans and suggestions for ameliorating the inconvenient and even dangerous conditions that obtain on the loop. The committee already has before it the report of its technical adviser, Engineer Bion J. Arnold, recommending a system of through routing, an enlarged loop, double decked crossings in Fifth avenue, and the use of existing and proposed spurs to relieve the congestion. In addition to this plan many suggestions along similar lines have been made by practical local engineers.

Two of these suggestions, which ultimately will go before the committee, have been received by THE TRIBUNE in response to an editorial article on Aug. 16, discussing the congestion of the loop. Leroy L. Hunter, a civil engineer who makes a specialty of designs for railway terminals, proposes a subsidiary loop, to be formed by the continuation of the present spur of the Oak Park line in Market street south from Madison street to the Metropolitan line, between Jackson boulevard and Van Buren street. It would be his idea to route some of the Metropolitan, Oak Park, and Northwestern trains around this auxiliary loop.

Four Loops; One for Each Line.

The other suggestion comes from George Welsby Scott, a consulting engineer, who submits a plan for the elimination of the grade crossings and tieups by a rearrangement of the one loop into four loops, each line to have its own loop. These loops, it is figured, could be made from the present loop with little alteration if lines were built on Clark and Monroe or adjacent streets.

"Your editorial, 'Expediting Loop Traffic,'" says Mr. Scott, "with its recommendation for cars with multiple side doors, is certainly to the point. Under the present arrangement the period of time limitation at stations is governed by the ability of passengers to get out, and then others to get in, through the doorway in the front and rear cars of a train, the two extreme end doors of the train not being in service.

"Much additional further delay, however, is brought about by the interference occasioned each other by the two different lines using the same loop track. Further delay is occasioned by trains waiting to cross over tracks at three of the four corners of the loop. And not infrequently a general "tieup" is experienced because some one train has been derailed in such a manner as to block both tracks of the loop.

Advantages in Four Loops.

"With the thought of avoiding not a few of the many difficulties and delays now experienced in moving cars around the loop, and with the further thought of expediting the traffic generally, and adding to the better convenience of the general service, a suggestion is made for four loops, one for each line. This would have the following advantages:

1. Each road complete with its own loop.
2. No conflict relative to station approach.
3. No crossings.
4. A tieup affects the individual road, and does not necessarily extend to others.
5. A union or transfer station at the inner angle [marked A on map] of all four loops.
6. An approximate reduction of one-half in loop length to be traversed.
7. The possibility of rounding the individual loops in time not appreciably longer than for the same distance on main line service.

"To accomplish this plan would require an east and west line on Madison, Monroe, or Adams streets, and a north and south line on Clark or Dearborn.

"For the Northwestern line approach to its loop could be either on a third line on Lake or advantageously through a portion of the alley between Lake and South Water streets."

Would Extend Market Street Stub.

Engineer Hunter outlined his scheme for the utilization of the Market street spur in this way:

"You are no doubt aware of the existence of the Market street stub, which reaches from Lake street to Madison street. The idea is to extend this Market street line south to a connection with the Metropolitan elevated, between Jackson and Van Buren streets.

"The 'short loop' could be operated by sending some Metropolitan trains north on Market street, east on Lake street, south on Fifth avenue, and west through the present Aurora and Elgin terminal to the bridge. Some of the Lake street trains could be sent south on Market street, east on Van Buren street, north on Fifth avenue, and west on Lake street to the bridge. Some of the Northwestern trains could be sent west on Lake street, south on Market street, east on Van Buren street, and north on Fifth avenue to the bridge. The South Side trains would run as at present.

"This proposed 'short loop' would have seven stations and would greatly relieve the rush hours on the present loop. It would enable trains to run faster on the Lake street, Wabash avenue, and Van Buren street sides of the present loop, because there would be fewer trains crossing each other at Wabash and Van Buren and at Fifth avenue and Van Buren corners."

HONORS AT GRAVE FOR WOMAN LEFT TO DIE IN DUNNING.

Former Associates of Miss Kate Will, Once Lecturer and Charity Worker, Save Her from Pauper's Burial.

Miss Kate Will is to receive in death the friendly recognition which was denied her in life. From the infirmary at Dunning, where the little, prematurely aged woman, once a lecturer, charity worker, and clubwoman, died last week in absolute poverty, Miss Will's body will be taken today to the Arlington cemetery and laid to rest by a score or more of her former fellow workers.

Representatives of the Illinois Woman's Press association, the Woman's Relief corps, and the ladies of the G. A. R. will conduct the services. Miss Will was at one time prominent in the activities of each of the organizations and when the pitiful story of her death alone at Dunning became known members of each society appointed themselves an impromptu committee to see that their old associate did not receive a pauper's burial.

Miss Will was interested also in the work of the Women's Model lodging house and the Jackson Park sanitarium.

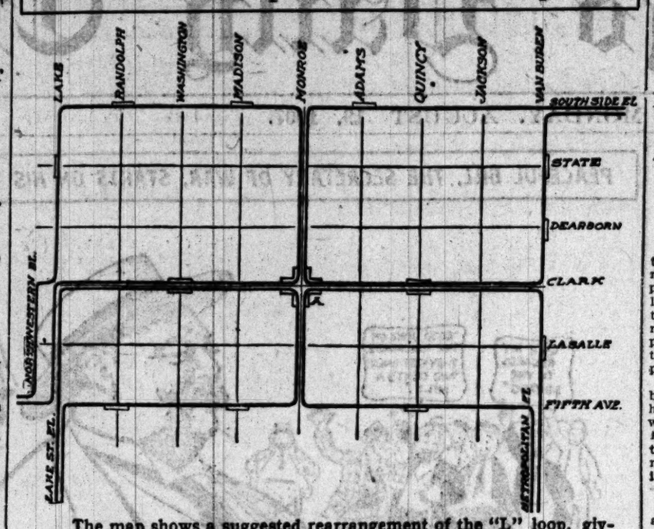

Boy Dies Soon After Swimming.

John Werr, 11 years old, who lived at Fifty-third street and Armour avenue, died yesterday after swimming in a pond at the old Washington park racetrack. Heart disease is believed to have caused his death.

Plan of Four Loops, Relief from Congestion

The map shows a suggested rearrangement of the "L" loop, giving the following advantages: (1.) Individual loop for each road. (2.) No conflict relative to station approach. (3.) No crossing. (4.) A tie-up on one loop does not necessarily tie up the entire service. (5.) A union or transfer station at A. (6.) Half the former distance covered by the trains in making circuit.

WANT PINKERTONS PUT OUT

Chicago Labor Element Would Appeal to Legislation.

BAN ON PRIVATE AGENCIES.

No Action on Resolution; Competition with Blind Deprecated.

Private detective agencies, especially the Pinkertons, fell under the ban of the Chicago Federation of Labor yesterday. Some of the unionists wanted the legislature directed at its session in October to pass a law putting the Pinkertons out of business by January.

Others argued that the legislature would not take up any new business at the next session, and that in any case the matter was more properly within the province of the National Federation of Labor. As a compromise the resolutions were referred to the committee on legislature.

This was the sort of law recommended by the committee that drafted the resolutions:

Be it enacted that on and after Jan. 1, 1908, the police powers of every description shall be exercised only by the public employes of the state and the public employes of every municipality within the state and every single violation of this law shall be punished by a fine of $5,000 and imprisonment for not less than one year.

The resolutions were the work of a committee of local 4 of the Actors' National Protective union.

Wanted to Call Conference.

Provision was made in subsequent paragraphs for a call to all labor organizations in Illinois to each send two delegates to a conference to be held the first week in October, to devise ways and means of impressing upon the state legislature the necessity of repealing all laws the tendency of which is to grant police powers of any kind to a private agency.

There was a good deal of talk following the reading of the resolutions. Anton Johannsen, business agent of the woodworkers, said:

Never mind the state legislature. Arouse your own people so that when a Pinkerton falls off a street car or into the lake or dies of consumption there'll be no sympathy for him.

Opposes Competition with Blind.

Business Agent Ramsay of the Broom Workers reported that the Industrial Institute for the Blind had recently installed several machines for making brooms.

"They have asked for union men to man these machines," said he, "and they will take from these poor blind people the means of earning a livelihood. If the institution proposes to double its output by labor saving machinery, I am in favor of the work being done by 'seeing' help."

The meeting indorsed this sentiment. The hand products of the blind workers have always been regarded as union made.

MENACED BY THE BLACK HAND, RICH ITALIAN FLEES COUNTRY.

Threats Against Life of Des Moines Man Causes Him to Hurriedly Leave for Former Home in Europe.

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Menaced by the Black Hand, Leon Maraco, a wealthy Italian, has fled from Des Moines with his mother back to Italy. Maraco confided in a priest before he left that the only wrong he had done to the terrible Italian society was to refuse to join in its work.

Whisperings of the Black Hand have been heard in the Italian colony for a week. One attempted murder was reported because of the refusal of a resident to join the society and now Maraco claims that a price of $1,000 was put upon his head.

Maraco claims that a few nights ago he was awakened to see a band of masked Italians in front of his window. They were playing the death song. Terrified Marsco packed up all his belongings the next morning and fled from the city. He and his mother are now reported to be on their way to Italy.

Asks Damages from Black Hand.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Suit has just been commenced at Newcastle for Dominick Tutino, an Italian, by his attorney, William J. Moffatt, against Fred Zerace, in which Tutino seeks to recover $1,000 which he declares was extorted from him by Zerace, who is declared to be a Black Hand leader.

Some time ago Tutino, who is a wealthy business man of Newcastle, received a letter from Zerace in which the latter declared that unless he gave him $1,000 he would forfeit his life to the Black Hand. Tutino paid no attention, but when he received other letters more threatening than the first he sent Zerace the money.

Demand then was made for more money, which he refused to give, and finally placed the matter in the hands of his attorney, who brought suit. It is believed to be the first suit of the kind ever brought in this country.

BRITISH INVADE VENEZUELA

Force Under Capt. Calder Seizes a Quantity of Gum.

IS FEAR OF RETALIATION.

Action Causes Storm on Frontier; London Without Information.

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, Aug. 17.—Much excitement has been caused here by the invasion of Venezuelan territory by Capt. Calder in the command of a small frontier force from British Guiana, and seizure of a quantity of balata (the gum of the bullet tree used for insulating wires, etc.), which, it is alleged, had been collected on British territory.

Gum Seized; Protest Made.

Capt. Calder's force went down the Barima river and crossed the boundary into Venezuela territory, where Capt. Calder, at the point of a revolver, demanded that the Venezuelan commissioner surrender to him four thousand pounds of balata. The commissioner gave up the gum. He has made a protest, however, to President Castro and the British consul here against the seizure of the balata and the invasion of Venezuelan territory.

Fears are entertained of retaliation at Morawhanna, the British frontier headquarters. There has been much trouble over the balata trade for some time and the British officials have made strong attempts to prevent illicit trading in the gum.

No Confirmation at London.

LONDON, Aug. 18.—The colonial office has received no information concerning the invasion of Venezuelan territory by Capt. Calder.

PLAGUE DEATH IN INDIA AROUSES ANXIETY OF KING.

Edward VII. Writes Viceroy Deploring Ghastly Work of Bubonic Scourge—Number of Victims Increase.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Aug. 18.—The bubonic plague in India, statistics of which have from time to time been printed by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, has reached such a pitch that, although the most extreme efforts have been made to cope with the disease, King Edward has written to the viceroy a letter which is made public today. It says:

My Dear Viceroy: I have followed with anxious interest the latter course of that epidemic by which India for eleven years past has been so sorely afflicted. The welfare of my Indian subjects must ever be to me an object of high concern, and I am deeply moved when I think of the misery that has been borne with such silent patience in all those stricken homes.

I am well aware how unremitting have been the efforts of your excellency's predecessors and yourself to make out the causes of the pestilence and mitigate its effects.

It is my earnest hope and prayer that the further measures now being prepared by your excellency in consultation with zealous and able officers may be crowned with merciful success. I desire that you communicate this expression of my heartfelt sympathy to my Indian subjects. Believe me, sincerely yours, EDWARD R. I.

The figures of the plague mortality as given in the latest blue book are appalling. From 92,800 deaths in 1900, the increase in 1904 shows 1,143,900. In 1905 there was a decrease to 1,003,100, but the present year it is feared will show record proportions. In the first three and a half months of 1907 there were 495,000 deaths recorded. The total recorded deaths from 1899 to 1905 were 4,177,300.

It is said they are at loggerheads over what course they shall pursue. The reports declare that the tribesmen are lacking in supplies of ammunition. The threatened attack on Casablanca had not occurred this morning.

The authorities have commenced the rebuilding of the minaret of the mosque, which was shot down by the defenders of the French consulate.

Gerard A. Lowther, the British minister here, has received no communication from Caid Sir Harry MacLean or his captor, the bandit Raisuli, for five days. It is only known here that Sir Harry was alive Aug. 12.

STRIFE ENDED AT THE HAGUE

Russian Scheme to Disperse Conference Balked by Powers.

FAVOR PEACE PRIZE COURT.

American Plan Practically Accepted; Choate's Fine Work.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

THE HAGUE, Aug. 18.—Immediately upon the successful abandonment of the armaments problem at yesterday's session, the peace conference has taken a fresh lease of life. It is notorious that the Russian delegation desired that the conference should end now. They have taken a wholly inglorious part in its proceedings, and are not in a position to render useful assistance to any project still under discussion.

The idea of terminating the assembly has been, however, peremptorily knocked in the head by Baron Marschall von Bieberstein, who, with the support of the American and English delegations, let Count Nelidoff know that, although the czar might have summoned the conference, he could not disperse it.

Agree on Prize Court Scheme.

America, England, and Germany then agreed on a scheme for the establishment of an international prize court, which removes the objections hitherto taken by France and other powers. The latter maintained that the existence of a prize court predicated a state of war, which they hoped would be a condition so rarely existing that the maintenance of such a prize court could not and would not be justifiable, especially under the aegis of the peace conference.

The sponsors of the scheme have now approved the American suggestion that the prize court be comprised within the permanent arbitrational court. This has the double advantage of conciliating the opponents of a prize court as a species of war tribunal and of greatly strengthening the case in behalf of a permanent arbitration court by demonstrating that it will have work to do.

Choate Greatly Aids Work.

This better light which has suddenly come over affairs here is largely due to the untiring hopefulness and resourcefulness of Mr. Choate, supported sincerely by England and Germany.

The American scheme for a permanent court will come before the committee Tuesday, when it will be modified by the omission of the clause providing that a country cannot be represented on the bench in a case in which it is a litigant.

CUBAN POLITICS SIZZLING HOT.

Proposed Meeting to Celebrate Revolution of Last Year Causes Dissension as to Propriety.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

HAVANA, Aug. 18.—Political circles have been rent asunder by the proposed meeting tomorrow night to commemorate the beginning of the revolution of last year. The meeting was planned by the supporters of Alfredo Zayas, whereupon José Miguel Gomez, the rival liberal candidate for the presidency, said he would not participate. Since then politicians have been excitedly discussing the propriety of the meeting.

The Zayastas planned to invite Gov. Magoon, but did not because the impossibility of his attending such an affair was pointed out to them. The moderates, whom the liberals defeated in the revolt, are indignant over the celebration. They declare that it is in bad taste and an outrage. They have discussed plans for a counter demonstration.

The supporters of Gomez held a meeting last night and constituted themselves a liberal national convention wholly, according to the Zayastas, without authority. Following the meeting delegates went to Gomez's home. He received them and embraced each of them.

SOCIALISTS TALK ON WORLD ISSUES

First Great Congress to Meet on German Soil Is Cosmopolitan.

BEBEL ADDRESS FEATURE

Immigration, Trades Unionism, and Other Problems Slated for Discussion.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

STUTTGART, Aug. 18.—For the first time a great international socialist congress is meeting on German soil. The visiting delegates were given a great reception in a special room in the railway station, draped with red and adorned with evergreens. The streets from the station to the meeting hall were decorated with flags, red being the predominating color.

There assembled 886 delegates. Germany sent 300, England 130, France 90, Australia 80, and Russia, Switzerland, Bohemia, Hungary, Italy, Bulgaria, Roumania, Sweden, Holland, the United States, Argentina, South Africa, Australia, and Japan sent smaller numbers.

The most important delegates are considered to be Hyndman of England, Bebel and Singer of Germany, Dr. Adler of Austria, Ferri of Italy, Jaures and Vaillant of France, Greulich of Switzerland, Axelrod and Plechanoff of Russia, Anseelde and Van der Velde of Belgium, Van Kol and Troelstra of Holland, Branting of Sweden, and Hillquist of America.

Problems to Be Discussed.

The congress, which will sit for a week, will consider questions of militarism, international conflicts, the relations between political parties and industrial workers and emigration. Journalists are admitted to the meetings.

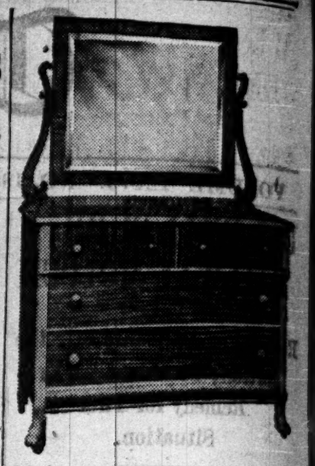

One of the questions which the congress leaders consider the most important is immigration and emigration of workmen. The Amsterdam congress considered two resolutions dealing with this, one rejecting all legislative measures tending to hinder the entrance of alien workmen, but opposing the importation of workmen for sweating purposes, and the other, presented by the Dutch, American, and Australian delegates, enjoining on the party opposition the importation of negroes and Chinamen. The Amsterdam congress reached no decision and referred the whole matter to the next congress for further examination.

The chief event today was Bebel's speech. He said that the men enrolled in socialist syndicates in 1907 numbered 1,800,000. Herr Bebel then referred to the strong representation of the socialist party in the United States and in congress. He mentioned the "scandalous" prosecution of Haywood in Idaho, where, he said, the capitalist classes had done everything possible to convict him, but after all he had been brilliantly acquitted. In conclusion Herr Bebel expressed the hope that this conference would do better than the one still sitting at The Hague, which would bring forth a most ridiculous mouse, which would probably be still born.

Big Massmeeting Held.

This afternoon there was a gigantic massmeeting in the fields at Cronstadt, a suburb of Stuttgart, 10,000 socialists being present. The meeting was unparalleled in the history of social democracy. The dense, orderly crowd swarmed around six draped platforms, whence they were addressed by their leaders. In a never ending stream came orderly processions of different trade unions and guilds with bands playing and with banners bearing inscriptions reading:

"Eight hours' work, eight hours' play, eight hours' rest," and "Long live international solidarity."

WEST SIDE BARS DEFY NEW ORDER

Saloons Filled with Women and Music in Full Blast After 1 A. M.

PATROLMEN KEEP AWAY.

Police Appear Not Anxious to Discover Violations; Silver Closes Up Promptly.

Defying the recent police order, west side saloonkeepers, who had received instructions that the "lid" had been placed on gambling, that music must cease on Sunday, and that women must be kept out of their places, continued yesterday morning to disregard at least two of these orders, along with the 1 o'clock closing ordinance.

Although every one of the 351 saloonkeepers in the Desplaines street police district had been notified to lock his doors at the legal closing hour, more than a score of places were found open and drinks were being sold openly to women as well as men patrons. In two or three instances policemen were seen standing near saloons wherein crowds of women were singing, pianos were thumping, and drinking was in full swing.

Policeman Flees from Fight.

The most notorious offender was the saloon owned by Morris Bloom, 621 West Madison street. Nearly 100 patrons, women and men, were seated at tables in a large room adjoining the bar when a woman screamed and ran from the place. She was followed by a man said to be "Tommy" Lyman, a concert hall singer. Before the woman reached the door Lyman had seized her, threw her to the floor, and struck her repeatedly. The fight continued in front of the saloon, the woman fighting back, seizing Lyman and throwing him against a large plate glass window. One of the crowd, a man known as Joe Tennyson, separated the couple and all went back into the saloon for some more drinks.

During the fight several women patrons fled and ran down West Madison street screaming "Police." This occurred at three minutes after 2 o'clock while a uniformed policeman of the Lake street station was standing at the corner of Paulina street. Instead of attempting to learn the cause of the women's cries the policeman walked hurriedly north in Paulina street.

Bloom denied that the fight started in his place, though he admitted the participants had been there earlier in the evening. He said he closed promptly on time.

Invited in by Bartender.

No trouble was found in obtaining drinks in the saloon of Samuel Wexler, West Monroe and Green streets, after the closing hour. At the side entrance was an auburn haired bartender who invited persons passing by to "step right inside for all kinds of drinks." Inside were three women and two men. One of the women wore a brown skirt, white shirtwaist, and blue trimmed hat. She appeared to be less than 20 years old. The other two women were said to be "old timers." All were seated at a table and were drinking beer.

Within the same block the saloon of Thomas Croker, 194 West Monroe street, was filled with women at 1:20 o'clock. Three women and four men sat surrounding tables while a colored woman played a piano.

Three men were in the saloon of Samuel Mendelson, Halsted and West Monroe streets, half an hour after the doors should have been locked.

Think Order Isn't "on the Square."

Drinks were sold freely in the Silver Moon saloon, said to be owned by Ellis Marks, Peoria and West Madison streets. Unaccompanied women passed through the side door several times. Four women were seated in a corner and sang songs while the white aproned bartender served them with highballs and mixed drinks. No attempt at secrecy was made and no policeman passed the saloon for more than an hour.

"We don't think this closing down is on the square," the waiter volunteered. "We have got these orders before but paid no attention to them."

Entrance through a side door over which was a sign marked "Hotel" was gained to a crowded room at the rear of the saloon of M. J. Fritzel, 387 West Madison street. In this place there were a dozen women and as many men, each being served with drinks. Occasionally when a woman laughed loudly the proprietor warned them to quiet "as things are a little dangerous now." In explanation he told them the police were more strict now than before, but that he was permitted to have a few privileges.

One Man Observing the Law.

At many other west side places the police order was totally disregarded. At one place it really seemed to be observed. Admittance was refused to two women and two men at 1:45 o'clock at the side entrance of James Perry's saloon, Green and West Madison streets. Perry said he was obeying orders.

The attention of the commanding officers of the Desplaines street station was called to the indifference to orders displayed by certain saloonkeepers. It was said warrants must be obtained before arrests could be made, so if saloonkeepers had violated the law it was the policeman traveling the beat who would be held responsible.

Silver Bows to Police Order.

George Silver's Rialto saloon, at Clark and Randolph streets, showed the effect of the new order last night. The rotund proprietor was observed studying the face of the clock frequently as the legal closing hour approached. To make sure, at 12:45 the "all out" order was called.

No unescorted women were admitted to the saloon during the evening.

Slim Wineman, who has a saloon near Silver's, at 98 Randolph street, was not so particular. At midnight he admitted two unescorted women to his saloon. Mr. Wineman, however, closed up almost on time. It was about 1:05 when he turned out the last of his guests.

The police ban on gambling seemed to be well enforced. At night Chief Shippy issued a statement in which he declared the city was freer from gambling than ever before. "I am confident," he said, "that there was no gambling during the day. I have instructed the men to redouble their vigilance at night."

During the day Chief Shippy and Assistant Chief Schuettler paid several calls to stations in districts where gambling is common. Patrolmen were informed that their jobs would be forfeited if they sought to protect gambling in any form.

Saloon Blinds Are Closed.

The "closed blind order" was obeyed to the letter by almost all of the thousands of saloonkeepers in Chicago. Even the back doorways and windows, in many cases, were closed during the day, and passersby in many instances believed that the saloon business was at a standstill.

When night came only a faint glimmer of light penetrating through holes and below the curtains told of the drinking at the bar within. In the loop district policemen and detectives patrolled the streets looking for violations, but they reported to their stations that "everything was quiet."

Visitors to the Twenty-second street levee thought that the entire neighborhood was closed up, for the bright lights and strident music usual on Sunday evenings were absent.

Saloonkeepers generally on the north and northwest sides obeyed Chief Shippy's orders to have all curtains down, but some infractions of the order were noticed. In the saloon of J. J. Smith, 11 North Clark street, the curtains were undrawn.

May Go After Boat Gamblers.

There has been no movement to stop the operating of slot machines on the lake boats, but this may be done early in the week. Chief Shippy proposes to secure an opinion on this matter from the corporation counsel's office. It is not believed that the law as to the "high seas" as given out by the Waukegan justice in discharging the case against the officers of the Pere Marquette would stand a test in courts of record. The slot machines are operated not only outside the three mile limit but even while the boats are tied up at the

BANDITS ASK WINE RANSOM

Passengers Laugh When Ten Jolly Robbers Hold Up Street Car.

VICTIMS BOUND TO TREES.

Motorman Merrick and Conductor Hixson Are Cleverly Hoaxed.

As the first car on the new trolley line from Evanston to the Glen View Golf club approached its destination yesterday morning it was held up by masked bandits. They surrounded the car, dragged Motorman George P. Merrick and Conductor Henry R. Hixson into the woods, tied them to trees and at the point of revolvers compelled them to sign orders for champagne. Similar treatment was given to William S. Clough, a passenger, who attempted to rescue the car crew.

Although the car, in spite of the early Sabbath morning hour, carried nearly a score of persons, among whom were two women, there were no signs of terror or confusion. A stranger could have divined from the laughter and farcical nature of the robbery that something of an unusual tone had been expected by the passengers when they took the car.

In fact, the inauguration of the hourly service to the golf grounds had been looked forward to for some time and the officers of the road had been told that a "band" would be waiting for the first car. They had looked for a band of musicians rather than robbers.

The last rails were laid Saturday midnight over a new bridge crossing the north branch of the Chicago river and the schedule time for the first car was announced as 10:30 Sunday morning.

Barricade Across the Tracks.

A large number of enthusiastic club members boarded it at Central street. Among them were George P. Merrick, president, and Henry R. Hixson, secretary-treasurer of the road. The car was decorated with flags and bunting, and entering into the spirit of the occasion Mr. Merrick put the conductor's cap on his own head and called "All aboard!"

Not to be outdone Mr. Hixson replaced the motorman at the controller and after both had been decorated with union buttons the car was started. Just after it had passed the river bridge and entered the woods that surround the club grounds Mr. Merrick was startled by seeing a barricade of logs and bushes across the track.

As he brought the car to a stop ten masked men, showing signs of having left a game of golf a few moments before, surrounded it. No offers of resistance were made and while half of them bore Mr. Merrick, struggling vainly to keep his glasses firmly on his nose, into the dense forest, the remainder were taking care of Mr. Hixson.

After they had been bound to trees in full sight of their laughing passengers, they were told that they would not be released until they signed orders on the club for half a dozen quarts of champagne. One passenger, more valiant than the rest, William S. Clough, ran to their rescue and soon was securely fastened to a third tree and the same terms of ransom were given him. Despairing of rescue and seeing their pet car fall behind in its schedule time, the three gave way to the demands upon them.

Cheered and Jeered by "Robbers."

The victims were released and the robbers disappeared among the trees, sending back cheers and jeers. When the barricade had been cleared away the car proceeded on its way to the club, where it was received with a display of day fireworks.

The victims of the prank were sincere in their threats to "get even." In the arrival of E. V. Church, W. H. Salisbury, Ira J. Couch, Noel S. Munn, and Frank C. Letts, who boarded the car after it had passed the barricade, appearing evidently from nowhere in particular, they believed they saw a clew to the personnel of half of the robber band, and in the possibility that some one will present the orders for champagne for payment they saw another chance for revelations.

The only women in the car were Mrs. Hixson and Mrs. Charles W. Folds. Among the men were Charles Truax, Walter T. Dwight, James W. Donnell, Charles Arnd, George H. Moore, and Fred S. James. They refused to assist the officers of the road in detecting the perpetrators of the robbery.

AIMS AT THIEVES; HITS A GIRL

Stanley Stanusky Misses Fleeing Gang of Five Robbers.

LASS SHOUTS OUT WARNING.

Warns Vengeful Crowd That Bartender Is Pursuing Evil Doers.

While shooting at five men who had attempted to rob him in a saloon at 622 West Twenty-fifth street last night, Stanley Stanusky, 25 years old, the bartender, accidentally wounded in the thigh Victoria Lesna, 15 years old, 1014 Sacramento avenue.

A crowd which gathered after the shooting believed that Stanusky had intentionally attempted to kill the girl and threats against him were made by many who saw him running west in West Twenty-fifth street with the revolver in his hand.

The girl, who had fallen in a vacant lot at 624 West Twenty-fifth street, despite her pain shouted out a warning to those in pursuit of Stanusky that they were chasing the wrong man.

Many of the men and boys then followed the five robbers, but they escaped by running into an alley.

Stanusky Held Pending Inquiry.

The police of the Hinman street station were notified by one of the friends of the wounded girl and they removed her to the county hospital. Later they took Stanusky into custody, pending a further investigation.

The Lesna girl was skating with a number of friends on the sidewalk and they had reached a vacant lot adjoining the saloon when the five alleged robbers emerged from the place and ran west. Stanusky appeared a moment later and began firing at the men as they were passing the girl and her friends. One of the bullets struck her and she fell off the walk into the lot.

Were with Wounded Girl.

Stella Chorozywski, 1018 Sacramento avenue; Michael Karashewski, 556 West Twenty-fifth place; Celia Mateiski, 508 West Twenty-fifth place; Charles Gay, 942 West Twenty-fourth place, and Frank Mosher, 266 West Twenty-fourth street, were with the Lesna girl at the time she was shot.

Stanusky, when he returned from the chase of the robbers, was taken into custody by the police. He said that he was alone in the saloon shortly after 8 o'clock when the five young men entered. Though apparently unarmed, they attempted to open the cash register. Stanusky seized a revolver, and as he started toward them they ran.

The two prisoners, who live at Benton, were startled late tonight by a stone crashing through a window. It is said that they ran outside with their guns and shot the two boys, who were walking past the house accompanied by two girl friends. The boys deny that they threw the stone. Neuy may die.

FORMER ACTRESS IN SLEUTH ROLE.

Leads Raid on Indiana Avenue Flat, Capturing Husband with Two Women.

SAYS HE NEGLECTED HER.

Mrs. Jack Allen, Known on Stage as Laura O'Brien, in Exciting Street Drama.

"Jack" Allen, 27 years old, a bookkeeper for Irwin Brothers, wholesale meat dealers, 449 State street, went back to his cozy home, 3258 Forest avenue, yesterday afternoon after his release from the Thirty-fifth street police station. He found the door locked against him, so he tapped on the window. Mrs. Allen, a good looking woman, 26 years old, and formerly an actress, opened the window.

"Laura, dear, isn't it enough that you caused me to sleep all night on the hard board floor at the police station?" pleaded Allen. "You aren't going to appear against me tomorrow morning, are you? I'll come back and be good."

According to Mrs. Allen's story of this "balcony scene" she then and there read the riot act to "Jack."

"It wasn't any Romeo and Juliet scene, I can assure you," related Mrs. Allen. "I told him I had tried him again and again and he had failed me. Now I shall show him no mercy. I didn't go to all the trouble of tracking him to that Indiana avenue flat for nothing."

Raids Flat; Captures Husband.

It was early Sunday morning that Mrs. Allen's self-assumed role of detective proved successful. She personally conducted a raid on the third flat at 3718 Indiana avenue, assisted by a private detective, C. L. Bowen, 4315 Calumet avenue.

The recalcitrant husband, Jack, and two women who gave their names to the police as Mme. Dixon and May McGarrah lent considerable activity to the scene at that stage of the game. In the intense excitement, however, Mrs. Allen did not forget her lines.

On entering the flat with Detective Bowen she sighted her husband making his getaway to the rear.

"Mr. Allen appeared dumfounded," related Detective Bowen, "but Mrs. Allen carried out her rôle to a finish. She walked up to Jack and smashed him in the face, knocking him down."

Sorry She Forgot Being a Lady.

"Yes, I apologized to him for that today," interrupted Mrs. Allen. "I am sorry I forgot being a lady, but I know if I had had a weapon I would have done something desperate, I was so angry."

Detective Bowen got into the flat by calling through the speaking tube that he had a special delivery letter for Mr. Allen.

Mr. Allen will appear this morning before Judge Maxwell to answer the charge of disorderly conduct. His cousin and employer, Alexander Irwin, signed the bond for his release.

Mrs. Allen, whose maiden and stage name was Laura O'Brien, said that prior to and since her marriage to Allen five years ago she appeared on the stage in Chicago and elsewhere in several successful dramas.

Returns to Stage Occasionally.

"I gave up the stage with the brightest prospects before me to marry Allen," she said. "A year ago I returned to it. I took the rôle of the sweetheart to the king in 'The Duke of Duluth.' The first night the play was on Jack was present, and the next day, at his request, I quit the play. He didn't like the little lovemaking rôle I had with the king. I quit 'The Coward' at McVicker's last May because he objected. He was not making much as a bookkeeper, and I thought I could add to our means by going on the stage occasionally."

"Mr. Allen has been home only at intervals since last November, part of the time failing to support myself and the two children. Two months ago, when our baby was born, he left the house and didn't return for a week. The surprising thing is how he can neglect his children. Little Russell is the pride of the neighborhood."

The marriage of Allen and his wife followed a romantic meeting aboard a vessel between Milwaukee and Chicago. During a severe storm Allen tied a life preserver on his future wife and cared for her after she had fainted.

SUICIDE TO END DRINK CRAZE; ANOTHER TO CURE INSOMNIA.

Hotel Clerk, Despondent After a Spree, Turns on Gas—Sleepless Man Finds Revolver Hidden by Family.

Despondent because of a losing fight with the liquor habit, Oscar M. Wilson, 50 years old, night clerk at Hunt's hotel, 150 Dearborn street, retired to his room at 9 o'clock yesterday morning and ended his life by turning on two gas jets. His body was discovered shortly after noon by employés of the hotel, who were led to break down the door by the smell of escaping gas.

Wilson lost his position some time ago through drink. He was reinstated and promised to do better. He abstained totally for a long while, but began drinking again recently. He spoke sadly to other employés of the house at times, declaring he could not stop.

He is supposed to have a wife and three children at Johnstown, Pa.

John H. Harris, 60 years old, 168 North Hamlin avenue, a matrimonial agent, who for several weeks had been suffering with insomnia, fired a bullet into his right temple at 11 o'clock in the morning and died immediately. His sleeplessness is supposed to have been caused by worry over a police investigation of alleged irregularities in his mail order matrimonial bureau.

Because of illness following sleeplessness his family, consisting of his wife and a daughter, had been instructed to keep a close watch on him. The revolver had been carefully hidden by his wife, but he discovered it yesterday morning and took it to his room.

Louis Elsworth, 27 years old, 330 West Monroe street, was found early in the morning in his room overcome with gas from an open gas jet, and was removed to the county hospital in a critical condition.

Patrick Madden, 42 years old, a sailor, was barely saved from committing suicide in the evening when he tried to plunge from the sixth floor fire escape of the La Salle street railroad station on a suggestion given by another man in a joking manner. He was on the point of hurling himself to the street when he was drawn back by Firemen George Baldwin and James Maynard of engine company No. 10.

ROBBED AT POINT OF REVOLVER

Visiting New Yorker Has Encounter with Highwayman—Housebreaker Caught by Police After Chase.

W. F. Schwentker of New York, visiting for a week at 570 Forty-third street, was attacked by a masked highwayman at Wabash avenue and Twenty-fourth street last night and robbed of a diamond stick pin valued at more than $250. The robber thrust a revolver in Schwentker's face. Before he could make any resistance he was dragged into an alley, hurled to the ground, and robbed. His assailant then fled.

In a chase extending over several blocks Lionel Oamoureux, 17 years old, 3296 Beacon street, was captured by the Summerdale police yesterday morning, and stolen jewelry valued at over $100 recovered. A young man who was acting as "lookout" for Oamoureux in the robbery of Willard Record's home, 796 Vincent avenue, escaped.

John Sicura, 27 years old, 22 Augusta street, was knocked down and robbed of $40 and a gold watch by three men at the mouth of an alley on Ashland avenue, near Division street, early Sunday morning.

ROAD'S IMMUNITY A PROBLEM

Washington Officials Look Askant at an Alton Prosecution.

HOLD CONFERENCE TODAY.

Fear Effect on Corporations; Oil Testimony to Be Reviewed.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—The Chicago and Alton immunity conference will take place at the department of justice tomorrow morning. District Attorney Sims and his assistant, Mr. Wilkerson, arrived here tonight. Former District Attorney Morrison did not come. He will forward a written statement explaining exactly what he promised the Chicago and Alton, and giving his views as to whether or not the road lived up to its agreement.

Outcome of Conference a Mystery.

There is a noticeable disinclination on the part of the officials of the department of justice tonight to predict what the result of the conference will be. Mr. Sims absolutely declined to discuss the matter, saying that it obviously was one that must receive the consideration of and be decided by the attorney general.

It is known that the attorney general has a transcript record in the Standard Oil proceedings, and comparing this with the statement of Mr. Morrison, he will determine whether to prosecute the road or not to do so.

Mistake to Violate Promise.

The feeling among high administration officials other than of the department of justice is that it would be a grave mistake to violate the promise made to the Chicago and Alton, because of the effect it would have in sealing the lips of officials of other roads and corporations. Probably this would cause great embarrassment in future Standard Oil prosecutions, and certainly would stop railroads and corporations from giving evidence which later might be used against them. All these considerations will enter into the decision of the attorney general. Upon the conclusion of the conference it is expected that a formal statement will be made.

BREAKS SILENCE OF 15 YEARS TO DEMAND HIS BACK PENSION

Inmate of Tennessee Asylum Solves Mystery of His Identity by Demand, "Where Is My Money?"

Dover, Tenn., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—After fifteen years of silence James B. Vernon, a veteran of the civil war, who has been an inmate of the county asylum for seventeen years, recovered his speech, and the first words he uttered were: "Where is my money?"

The man, who is in his 76th year, asked the question on Friday, and today it was learned that the government owes him back pension and interest amounting to $7,000, all of which a letter from Washington says he will receive at once.

Today, when Vernon was told of the windfall, he said he didn't care, so long as he knew the money was all right. All he desired was to be allowed to remain in the asylum hospital.

For nearly two decades Vernon has been a puzzle to the asylum authorities. He was admitted in 1890 as an insane patient and little was ever learned about him. He was often the victim of violent fits of insanity and two years after his admission apparently lost the power of speech.

In the fifteen years that have elapsed since then he has not been known to utter a word except incoherently in his violent spells.

The last year or two the violent symptoms of Vernon's insanity almost completely disappeared, but the habit of silence had grown upon him and officials of the asylum regarded him as unable to speak, until on Friday he startled the warden with his demand: "Where is my money?"

The warden questioned him, and for the first time discovered that Vernon was a veteran of the civil war. The warden communicated this to Judge Roberts, who immediately corresponded with the department at Washington and learned that Vernon was a member of company H, First Pennsylvania regiment, and had been excused from service on account of mental weakness. He was thought to be dead.

Victoria, Mo., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—George Patton, a veteran of the civil war, was killed today by his friend and comrade, Capt. Charles E. Waters, in a quarrel which arose between them at a meeting of the local Grand Army post. In the quarrel Patton threatened Waters with his stick and Waters snatched from the wall a bayonet trophy of the war and stabbed him. Both men were leading citizens of Victoria and on the government's pension list for disabled soldiers. Waters was arrested tonight and will be arraigned for murder tomorrow.

DRUGGIST TREATS A BABY; ARRESTED AFTER IT DIES.

Henry A. Hotwet Taken Into Custody on Charge of Practicing Medicine Without a License.

Rudolph Ringler, 3 months old, adopted son of Mrs. Ida Ringler, 44 Wells street, died yesterday several hours after he had been treated for stomach trouble by Henry A. Hotwet, a druggist, 26 Wells street.

Hotwet was arrested on a charge of practicing medicine without a license. Mrs. Ringler said he charged her $5 for treating the child. The contents of the child's stomach will be analyzed this morning, and if the coroner's physician finds any deleterious substance the druggist in all probability will be held on a graver charge.

The inquiry into the death also brought to light the information that the child was born last June to a 15 year old girl named McMahon, living in Sedgwick street, and was turned over to Mrs. Ringler by Mrs. M. Rommell, a midwife, 200 Chicago avenue. Mrs. Ringler said the mother of the child had never seen it since she adopted it.

ADVERTISE IN THE TRIBUNE

TAFT STARTS ON LONG PILGRIMAGE

Secretary Leaves Washington on Journey That Will Take Him Around World.

FIRST STOP AT COLUMBUS.

Will Make Good His Promise to Filipinos; Returns to Capital in December.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—On a pilgrimage that will encircle the globe and in fulfillment of a promise to the Filipinos to return to Manila to attend the opening of their first legislative assembly, Secretary Taft left here tonight on the first stage of the journey. W. W. Michler of Mr. Taft's office and an attendant accompanied the secretary. Mrs. Taft and son, Charles, will join the secretary in the Yellowstone park for the remainder of the trip, and Fred W. Carpenter, secretary to Mr. Taft, will join the party at Seattle.

Speaks at Columbus Tonight.

Secretary Taft's first stop is Columbus, O., where tomorrow night he will deliver a speech before the Buckeye Republican club.

Secretary Taft acknowledged the greetings of those who were at the station to bid him good-by. Gen. Frank J. Bell, chief of staff, and Chief Clerk Schofield of the war department accompanied the secretary to the train.

Will Be Busy Trip.

Mr. Taft said that he did not feel exactly as if he were going to make a trip around the world, because he had so much to do. The ocean part of his trip would afford him practically the only opportunity for rest during the journey. He had nothing to say regarding what he hoped to accomplish on his trip. Mr. Taft expects to return early in December.

Secretary Taft's Thousand "Centuries" of Official Traveling.

[From Collier's Weekly.]

When Secretary Taft returns from the trip around the world which he is now beginning, he will have traveled considerable over 100,000 miles in seven years. In 1900 he went to the Philippines [8,900 miles] as head of the Philippine commission, returning [8,900 miles] in 1902, and later in the year going around the world to Manila [21,564 miles] by way of Rome, where he arranged for the purchase of the friars' lands. In 1903 he came home from Manila to Washington [8,900 miles], and in the same year made a trip to Panama and return [4,362 miles], and again in 1904 [4,362 miles]. In 1905 he took a party of congressmen to the Philippines and back [17,818 miles]; in 1906 to Cuba and return [2,800 miles] at the time of our intervention, and this year to Cuba and Panama and return [4,362 miles].

"TAFT FAR IN THE LEAD," AVER POSTAL CARD BOOSTS.

Headquarters of War Secretary at Columbus, O., Sounds Slogan in Battle for Presidency.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—"Taft Far in the Lead," is the caption that appears on printed postal cards just received here from the Taft headquarters at Columbus, O. The statement is made that the editors of the leading independent newspapers of the various congressional districts in the United States were recently called upon to indicate the sentiment of their districts in regard to the choice for the presidency in 1908.

"Responses received from 285 districts," the postal cards read, "show Secretary Taft to be the prominent favorite of the people."

To the question: "If Roosevelt is eliminated, whom will your congressional district favor as the republican candidate?" 136 favored Taft, eighteen favored Fairbanks, and twenty-two voted for Knox. And Cannon received eight votes.

MOB HUNTS ONE-EYED TRAMP

Pastor's Daughter Found Tied to Tree After Night of Horror.

OHIO FARMERS ON TRAIL.

Posse of Pennsylvanians Also Beat Woods for Assailant of Child.

Greenville, Pa., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Posses from two counties with half a dozen bloodhounds are beating the woods around Greenville and Simons, O., tonight in a hunt for a one eyed man and the chances are good for a lynching if the man is captured.

The man hunt followed the discovery of Anna Whitehead, aged 14 years, early today tied to a tree in a thicket just outside the city. The girl, who is the daughter of the Methodist Episcopal minister at Turnersville, Pa., had been missing since last night. When she was found in the thicket she was nearly dead from exposure and ill treatment.

Her story is that while she was on her way to visit at a neighbor's home last night she met a one eyed tramp who asked the way to Simons, O. While the girl was telling him he placed a knife at her throat and threatened to kill her if she made an outcry. He forced her into a woods and left her there tied to a tree.

Savings Big Enough for Any Eyes to See

This store did not know it was weaving a new business fabric when it began these Half-Yearly Furniture Sales.

The first sale was an experiment. Business was dull. It was always dull in August. Dog days were the napping season. "We'll make a little noise to stir things up," we said.

Began with our own stock. Decided to reduce prices on all the sample pieces and discontinued patterns. Even house-cleaning was a new idea in those days.

Then we went to some manufacturers. Bought samples and broken lots.

Well, to make a long story short, we rounded up the furniture, took the public into our confidence—gave them ours—and the experiment became a rip-roaring success.

But This Is August 19, 1907.

What About This Sale?

BIG LABOR UNION LOOTED OF $12,000

Receiver for Electrical Workers Will Make Startling Charge to Supreme Court.

WORK ON NEW CHANNEL.

Uncle Sam Ready to Blast Out Eleven Mile Ship Route in Passaic River.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE. New York, Aug. 18.

W. J. K. Kenney, as receiver for the New York Electrical Workers' union, will present tomorrow to the Supreme court his report on the management of that association. The report, which is voluminous, declares that "thousands of dollars have been taken by the officers and other members of the union in disregard of the law of the state."

Labor Union Looted of Cash by Members.

In suggesting a remedy Mr. Kenney says of these officials and members:

"It seems to me useless to pursue them in the civil courts. They are now dependent upon what they earn from day to day. Judgments against them would be worth nothing."

The report goes on to say that the union from its start headed for disaster, there being no attempt made to comply with the law which provides for the appointment of a trustee to keep duplicate record of money received by the financial secretary. No trustee was ever appointed.

The receiver charges that five officers of the union took over $12,000 in fifteen months.

Work will be started on Thursday to dredge a deep water channel through the Newark bay and the Passaic river, the United States government having awarded a contract for that purpose last week. It is expected that in about three years large ocean steamships may be able to unload their cargoes at wharves in Newark. The sum of $500,000 was appropriated for the work at the last session of congress and $250,000 of that amount is available now.

Start Work on New Channel Soon.

The material excavated will be used in filling in a tract of the meadows between the Passaic and Hackensack rivers at a point where they run into the Newark bay, covering an area of more than 3,000 acres. Factories will be built on the land, which also will be equipped with railroad and water transportation facilities.

The channel is to be eleven miles long from the Kill von Kull to the Greenwood lake railroad bridge on the Passaic river, with a minimum depth of sixteen feet at low tide. This will make the depth from twenty to twenty-one feet at high tide and make the river navigable for ocean-going vessels.

Pottery manufacturers of the country are awaiting with some anxiety the outcome of a conference to be held in New York this week of representatives of the manufacturers and operatives to consider the wage question and other demands which have been made by the men. The operatives have threatened that unless their demands are complied with a general strike will be ordered throughout the country.

Pottery Workers May Call General Strike.

The manufacturers are almost a unit in declaring that these demands are so radical that it will be impossible to meet them.

The purpose of the New York conference is to make a new agreement, which the operatives are unwilling to do upon the old terms.

That only one life, that of Mrs. Mary Mahon, was lost in a fire which partly destroyed the tenement house at 207 East Thirty-third street, at 5 o'clock this morning, was due to the heroic efforts of the firemen, who, aided by a few policemen and several civilians, rescued sixty half suffocated persons from the burning building.

Police Rescue Sixty Persons from Fire Death.

The tenement, a five story house, was tenanted by fifteen families, the total number of persons in the house when the fire was discovered being about ninety, and of these at least two-thirds were caught on the fire escapes and had to be assisted to the street by the firemen.

GEORGIA ASSEMBLY RIOTOUS; ADJOURNS AFTER HARD FIGHT.

Strenuous Scenes in Closing Hours of Session Due to Gov. Hoke Smith's Lobbying for Reform Measures.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Almost in a riot, the general assembly of Georgia adjourned at 4 o'clock this morning after being in continuous session nearly twenty hours. The riotous scenes were due to the hard fight necessary to put through measures which Gov. Hoke Smith had promised the people would be passed. The governor was forced to fight or the legislature would have adjourned without enacting any of the reform legislation he had promised.

The hardest fight was over the bill increasing the powers of the railroad commission and giving the governor the right to appoint two more commissioners, thus making its membership five instead of three. At present the commission is hostile to Gov. Smith. He has only one man on it, but he will control it under the measure which he forced through.

This five member provision provoked the riot. The house indorsed the provision, but it was defeated in the senate at 3 o'clock this morning. Friends of the provision moved a reconsideration and Gov. Smith got so busy with certain senators that reconsideration was ordered and the provision saved by a vote of 22 to 21. Then the storm broke and senators began to denounce the governor for lobbying. Attacking Gov. Smith, Senator Hayes said:

"I have seen members who are against this increase buttonholed and toe trodden around this building all night."

TYPHOID THREATENS TO SPREAD

Thirty-one People Succumb in Sixteen Days—Physicians Warned to Report Cases.

During the first sixteen days of August physicians reported thirty-three cases of typhoid and thirty-one people succumbed to the disease, according to the records of the department of health. This is the highest death rate from this disease since 1903.

As typhoid can be expected to increase during the remainder of this month and probably during all of September, the situation, it is said, demands more attention from the physicians and people.

It is conservative to estimate that there are ten cases in the city for every death, since the death rate is not higher than one in ten. On this basis there are 310 cases in Chicago. Only thirty-three have been reported, therefore it is alleged that physicians are neglecting their duty to report.

With the opening of the public schools on Sept. 3 the department will put in effect a revised and more efficient system of medical inspection of schools.

HOPKINS SEES NEW DANGER

Speaker Shurtleff Suspected of Being Candidate for Senate.

PLATFORM A SHREWD DEVICE

May Give Him Power to Choose Nominee for the Governorship.

Word came to Chicago yesterday that United States Senator Albert J. Hopkins is not looking on the candidacy of Speaker Edward Shurtleff for the republican nomination for the governorship with that peace of mind which ordinarily would be expected. Exactly why a man who wants to succeed himself in the United States senate should bother his head over another man's desire to be governor of Illinois is not plain to the average, directly thinking citizen.

The explanation which is given, however, does credit to the claimed ability of Senator Hopkins to see through a millstone if there is a hole in it. It is that Speaker Shurtleff is not so much a candidate for governor as he is for senator, and his personal platform of limiting the representation of Cook county in the legislature was announced with that end in view. Speaker Shurtleff is a long way from being a political fool, and Senator Hopkins recognizes that fact.

Plays for Country Delegates.

It did look like political foolishness when the speaker announced his platform. It meant he could not hope to get any delegates to the state convention from Chicago, and without at least some there would be no hope of getting the nomination. It was calculated, however, to get him quite a number of delegates from the districts outside of Chicago and give him a respectable showing at the convention.

It could easily happen that Mr. Shurtleff could produce enough delegates to decide the gubernatorial fight. The man his delegates nominated for the governorship naturally would be his friend if he afterward wanted to be a candidate for the senatorship.

Just now William E. Mason is the only serious candidate against Senator Hopkins, and he is not generally regarded as dangerous. He possibly will beat Senator Hopkins on the popular vote, but under the primary law that is only an expression of opinion, not binding on the legislature. There is nothing in the law forbidding an outside candidate coming in. Besides, the law is apt to be thrown out by the Supreme court, anyhow.

Prejudice a Strong Factor.

How serious this agitation for a limitation of Chicago's representation in the legislature is is not understood in this city. It is a politicians' agitation entirely, but they have the natural prejudice of a smaller community against a larger one to work on, and the cry that Chicago, if unchecked, will soon dominate the whole state is a popular one. The politicians' interest in the matter is easily understandable.

Every apportionment which gives Chicago a few more districts takes the same number away from the rest of the state, and not only mixes up counties which formerly were independent of each other but throws two or more members of the legislature which formerly represented different districts into the same one. It is self-evident that all cannot go back to Springfield.

This is why Speaker Shurtleff thinks his candidacy for the governorship on his peculiar platform will be popular among the politicians, and Senator Hopkins is afraid that failing of the governorship he might be a dangerous candidate for senator.

Gov. Deneen in the City.

Gov. Deneen came to the city last evening and will be here today. He said he had not yet decided whether to call special elections for the various legislative districts, but intimated he would not.

FOLLOWS MOTHER TO LOCKUP.

Fourteen Year Old Girl Goes to Cell Rather than Let Parent Suffer Duress Alone.

Voluntarily and without fear, a little girl, 14 years old, went to a cell and was locked up at the Harrison street police station yesterday before she would desert her mother, who was under arrest. The girl's name is Margie Jenush and she lives at 777 Winchester avenue. Her mother, Mrs. Mary Jenush, 48 years old, and her stepfather got into a dispute on the Theodore Roosevelt as the boat was nearing Chicago over a son of the woman by her former husband.

The couple were arrested on complaint of an officer of the steamer.

Postal Clerks Nominate Delegates.

Thirty persons were nominated by the Chicago Postoffice Clerks' association yesterday as delegates at the National Postoffice Clerks' association convention, to be held at Peoria, Ill., on Sept. 1. Balloting for the election of twenty of them will begin on Saturday at the general postoffice.

GLENN DEFENDS HIS RATE POLICY.

North Carolina's Executive Asserts He Is Not Fighting Capital.

SAYS AIM IS INDUSTRIAL.

Favors Law by Congress to Prevent Clash Between State and Federal Courts.

New York, Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Gov. Glenn, North Carolina's fighting executive, came up from his state today to consult with the attorneys who are in charge of the state's case at the hearing of the Southern railway's injunction suit. The governor said he believed the railroad rate war was in a fair way of being settled in a manner satisfactory to the people of the state.

The governor let it be known in unmistakable terms that he was for legislation that would cut down railroad rates to even a lower figure than the 2¼ cent rate which led to the clash in authority between the federal and state courts.

Attitude Friendly to Capital.

"I have no patience," he said, "with this cry that the legislation in our own state and elsewhere in the south along these lines is going to retard the development of the south by frightening capital, hurting the railroads, and in effect killing the goose that lays the golden egg. I am an industrial governor. Only recently a prominent man wrote to me asking what my position was on questions in which capital was interested. I told him as I have told others before that I was an industrial governor. I have always made it a point to protect capital and protect the railroads from anything that was unfair. But when the railroads try to run us, then it is time to call a halt.

"We are not afraid of our industrial development being interfered with by making such laws, and we will protect capital just as much as we ever have. The railroad in this instance did not stand for a square deal. They refused to recognize our courts, where we gave them every opportunity in the world to have adjudicated all the points involved and to go from our courts to the United States Supreme court.

Ready for Court Clash.

"I believe that the proper remedy for such a situation and one that would prevent the possibility of a clash between the federal and state courts would be to have congress pass a law providing that a law passed by a state shall be passed upon first by the highest court in that state before it is taken to the federal courts.

"There was only once that this matter really became serious. Had Judge Pritchard tried to get our prisoner away from us and adjudged Judge Long in contempt I certainly would have backed Judge Long up with every soldier and every deputy sheriff in North Carolina. Of course had President Roosevelt sent troops into our state then we would have had to throw up our hands, as one state could not fight the union, but we should have appealed to the voters of the country and I think they would have been with me.

"There is only one way of dealing with these railroads. The point should be, is a railroad making money, and how much is it making? If it is making over a reasonable profit, then it should submit to a reduction in rates. The North Carolina law permits the roads to make 10 per cent. That we know from our investigation and their own reports. I think that is a pretty good profit. The law exempts roads under sixty miles in length and roads in course of construction."

VOLIVA PLANS A TABERNACLE.

Says He Will Build in Zion City a House Which Will Seat 2,500 Worshipers.

Wilbur Glenn Voliva, general overseer of Zion, announced last night that he would leave Tuesday for a ten days vacation and on his return will build in Zion City a tabernacle capable of seating 2,500 persons.

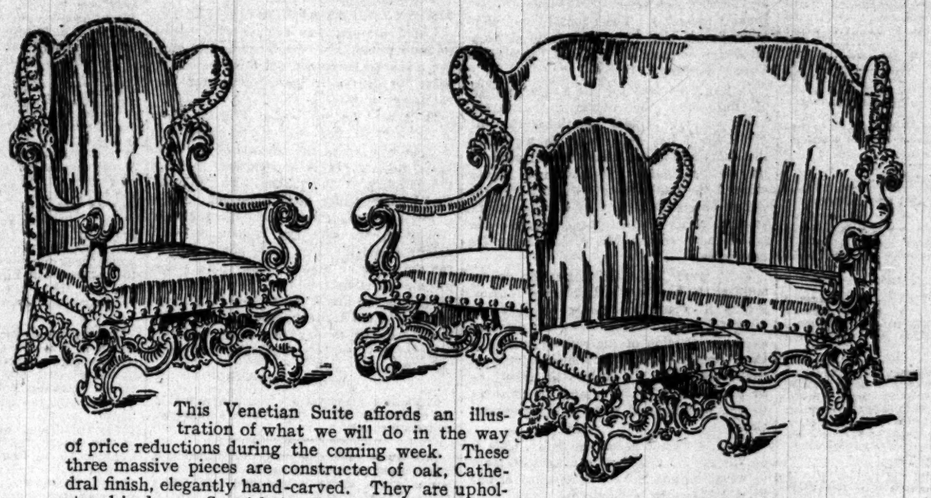

"I am going away," he said, "to gain strength for a greater battle than my enemies dream of. Let them chuckle over Judge Landis' decision which has placed Zion City in their power. I will change all this when I return. I also will deliver my opinion of Judge Landis from the pulpit."

Voliva refuses to rent Shiloh tabernacle from "the opposition." Hence his desire for a new house of worship.

ILLINOIS MAYORS.

The first convention of Illinois mayors is soon to be held in Bloomington. The call for the meeting is the result of a proposition made some months ago that mayors and ex-mayors should form a state organization and hold an annual meeting. A committee has been working over the plans for the society and its report indicates municipal improvement as the cause toward which the energies of the association should be directed.

In addition to the social features of a gathering of men each of whom has been honored by the suffrages of his fellows, the possibilities of rendering practical service to the municipalities represented ought to make the occasion one of much satisfaction to all who attend. While the problems of the large city, with its hundreds of thousands of citizens, are essentially different from those of the smaller community of 25,000, the exchange of views cannot fail to have value. For the smaller cities with common problems the plan has great possibilities.

There is much to be done in the way of municipal improvement. The interest of local organizations working for this cause may be greatly stimulated by wise suggestions from men who have grappled with difficulties of actual administration. If a uniform local improvement act be a desirable measure for the legislature to pass, its essential elements may wisely be indicated by such a group of trained workers.

Municipal improvement is a slogan which always rallies adherents. Most citizens are ready to support movements having this as the aim. In many cases all that is needed is the impulse to activity. The mayors ought to have a good time together, forming friendships and widening acquaintanceships. At the same time there is a chance for some really valuable work if the experience of those who attend is utilized in the framing of helpful suggestions to their fellow citizens.

MONEY BY MAIL.

There is a popular clamor for easier methods of transmitting money by mail. Every once in awhile some one incloses currency in a letter and it is stolen. Then the government is blamed for not making the mails safe. It is true that the postoffice department might do more than it does to bring knowledge of the money order system to the knowledge of the uncommercial portion of the public, but people themselves are generally to blame for the loss of money in transit.

Roughly speaking, one-half of the postoffices of the country are money order offices. In the large cities there are many branch stations. In Chicago, for instance, there are about 250 branch money order offices. The fee for a money order is from 3 to 8 cents for sums under $10. A person wishing to send money by mail can best look upon the small fee charged as insurance. It is only the occasional sender who intrusts currency to the mail. Merchants and others who have frequent occasion to send money will, as a matter of course, use postal money orders, express money orders, or drafts. The occasional sender can all the better afford to pay the fee than to run the risk of loss. It is false economy or it is sheer laziness to neglect this precaution.

To make all postoffices money order offices would increase the danger of loss to the government by fraud or robbery without any corresponding increase of convenience to the public. Any person receiving a money order, if he lives in a town too small to have a money order office, is certain to have business relations with some one there who in turn has relations with a bank or mercantile house in the neighboring town where the order is payable, and as money orders pass through the bank like checks or drafts, it is possible to secure the payment of one, upon identification, everywhere.

Experienced men can always detect the presence of money in a letter by feeling the envelope. It is a constant temptation to them. In Spain a person who sends currency by mail not only has no claim against the government if he loses it but is heavily fined if detected. The theory is that the sender of currency is doing an act prejudicial to the service by offering temptation and encouraging theft. The magazine publishers and solicitors of charitable contributions who send out heavy pasteboard cards with holes in which to place coins are stimulating theft. The government spends thousands of dollars for spies upon its employés. A law like that of Spain might place a part of the burden of this expense upon those whose carelessness causes it.

As to the sending of valuables other than money by mail it should not be forgotten that it is not necessary even to go to a postoffice or postal station to register mail, insuring a receipt from the person to whom it is addressed. Every letter carrier is obliged by law to register and receipt for letters and packages which are handed him upon his regular route, provided that the necessary stamps are affixed. It would seem that there is little more that the postoffice department could do to make the sending of money and valuables safer. In view, however, of the large number of new arrivals and other persons who are ignorant of these facilities, it might be well to hit upon some plan to keep the public posted. Every school teacher can do something to help.

MR. COLE AND THE LEAGUE.

Mr. George E. Cole has come out in support of the scheme for the restriction of the representation of Chicago in the general assembly. The natural conclusion to be drawn is that he intends to give up all active connection with the Legislative Voters' league.

It was organized for the single purpose of improving the representation from Cook county. Under the leadership of Mr. Cole it has done valuable work for the community, and there is still need of its services. But its usefulness would cease if the public were led to believe that it had become identified with a movement so alien to its original purpose as the one which now counts Mr. Cole among its advocates.

If it were Mr. Cole's intention to remain at the head of the Legislative Voters' league it would manifestly be out of place for him to advocate such a measure as the restriction of the representation of Cook county. As an individual having no connection with the league he would be at liberty to take any stand he chose as to the question of restricted representation.

That is why it seems as if Mr. Cole is on the eve of abandoning a field of labor in which he has had much success for one in which failure is inevitable.

CRITICISM FROM INDIANAPOLIS.

The Indianapolis News asks whether any of the influences which have shaped the history of mankind have come out of Chicago. It is altogether too soon to say. The history of the world covers thousands of years and Chicago has been a city officially for only three-quarters of a century. Perhaps the potent influence which Chicago has exerted during its brief life, and is to exert in the future, will be generally recognized a hundred years hence. At present civic modesty prevents the printing of an elaborate statement of all that the people of Indianapolis and the rest of mankind owe to Chicago.

The Indianapolis paper doubts whether Chicago is one of the "centers of civilization whose example lifts up the region round about." Its doubts can easily be removed by sending a commissioner to "the region round about" to ascertain what its intelligent inhabitants think about the matter.

Let the commissioner go to Evanston, Elgin, Rockford, Aurora, and other neighboring cities. He will hear everywhere acknowledgments of the beneficent influences which have radiated from Chicago. They may not have reached Indianapolis yet and contributed to the uplifting of that city, but the influences are on their way.

The News is of the opinion that Chicago needs "a great awakening of civic conscience and civic virtue." It seems sometimes as if that were the need of every American city. But the civic conscience and virtue of the city are much more active than they were a few years ago. Chicago has been able to get and keep an honest council, an achievement which has been impossible for many other cities. There are other ways in which it has given evidence of municipal virtue.

There is much that is amiss in Chicago. There are evil conditions that should not be allowed to exist, yet one may venture to say that Chicago is not chief among municipal sinners, and that it does occasionally radiate beneficent influences.

CENTRAL AMERICAN TRADE.

The states of Central America are not large compared with European countries, and are not so closely connected with the United States as the provinces of Canada are. Yet citizens of this country would regret to see anything which would interrupt the trade between the United States and Central America.

The population of the five states is about 4,200,000, or nearly the same as Ohio. It is three-fourths the population of Canada, although spread over a smaller area. It is larger than that of Australia. Trade relations are not so intimate as with those British possessions. We import from Central America as much as we do from Australia, but export to the former countries only two-fifths as much as to the Australian federation, while the combined volume of exports and imports is only one-eleventh that of Canadian exports and imports to and from the United States in both cases.

We receive from the Central American states about one-half of the bananas and about one-tenth of the coffee imported into the United States. These two items together make up $12,000,000 of the $13,000,000 worth of our imports from these countries. In the event of trade being interrupted we could get plenty of coffee elsewhere, although we would miss the fine Guatemala berry, but the banana supply would be cut short. The percentage of exports from these countries varies from approximately 20 per cent of the exports of Salvador to 90 per cent of the exports of Honduras. The proportion of imports received from the United States is about one-half, Germany and Great Britain supplying the rest.

The trade between the United States and the states of Central America is but a trifle compared with our other commerce, domestic and foreign, still it would not be agreeable to lose it. It is to be hoped that the reports that those states are about to plunge into a general war, which would seriously disturb commercial relations, are unfounded.

COAL FOR THE NORTHWEST.

Gratifying news comes from the northwest. During the three months ending Aug. 1 the railroads hauled from Superior and Duluth into the interior 48,944 carloads of coal, as against 28,549 during the same period last year. There are now 2,000,000 tons of coal on the docks at Superior and more coal is being rushed to that port. This means that there will be no coal famine in the northwest next winter.

Dwellers in the northwest have shown a disposition to profit by the bitter lesson of last year. Then they waited until the pinch of cold was upon them before they tried to get fuel, and, of course, were at the mercy of the snow. This year the orders for coal were sent in early enough and the railroads, in spite of the congestion of general business, which grows worse every year, have made a special effort to carry the coal. The prosperity of the northwest depends upon an ability to get fuel, and the railroads have taken that into consideration this year.

Before the close of navigation there will have been accumulated at the head of Lake Superior coal enough to keep the whole of the northwest warm. The railroads are increasing their trackage, and the coal which cannot be taken to the interior now will be ready to rush to the relief of the few communities which have been as shortsighted as they were last year. With most of the towns supplied already, the rest can be accommodated whenever there is not snow enough on the ground to stop the trains. Thus the forethought of some will be a benefit to all.

SHIPPY'S ORDER AND ITS COROLLARY.

Chief Shippy has ordered the police to keep women out of saloons and to stop the music in barrooms. It is an excellent order as far is it goes. Now for the corollary.

It is that he will order Whisky Row to go. It is not enough to make the women who haunt the saloons of the row have escorts. It is not enough to stop the jangling of the pianos. The saloons that harbor women at all must go.

The assignation houses, the disreputable hotels—all the offensive resorts in that neighborhood must go. It is not sufficient for the police to make Whisky Row wear an air of respectability. The neighborhood must be made respectable in fact as well as to outward appearance. The police have but to say the word and the disreputables, male and female, will pack up and move away.

A GOLFING ALPHABET.

[From the Liverpool Post.]

A is the alphabet; now let us try
Its lessons to golfing's sweet charms to apply.
B is the brassie, the bogey, the ball,
The bunker, where grief often comes to us all.
C is the caddie, who 's oft disinclined
To look for the ball, which yourself you must find.
D is the driver, and if I but knew
Its secrets I'd gladly reveal them to you.
E is the elegant, exquisite ease
Which your partner displays when he comes to the tees.
F is the foozle, the foursome, the 'fore,
The latter announced by a fear striking roar.
G is the guttie, discarded and dead,
So we'll take, if you please, its successor instead.
H is the handicap; as we progress
We are proud to behold it grows happily less.
I is the iron, and J is the jigger,
And K is the "kite," with two shillings the figure.
L is the lie, and it need not be stated
How often a good one is necessitated.
M is the mashie, and also the match,
And likewise the medal we all want to catch.
N is the niblick, in trouble a friend.
O the opponent, one up at the end.
P is the putter, most useful the fact is,
For giving on drawing room carpets some practice.
Q is the question, which worries the soul,
Why on earth it's so hard to get into the hole.
R is the rubber core, ancient device,
Though with certain advantages as to the price.
S is the stimy, and also the stroke,
And likewise subscriptions; but they are a joke.
T is the tee, where the amateurs stand,
With their noses just peeping o'er hillocks of sand.
U, V, W, X, Y, and Z
Are useful to mutter in passions instead
Of the sorry expressions which sometimes distress me;
Such as "O, good gracious!" "Confound it!" or "Bless me!"

A NOVEL DEGREE.

[From the London Hospital.]

The University of New Zealand, which, like most colonial universities, is keeping abreast of the times, has embarked on a novel scheme which will appeal to all who are interested in educational developments. By instituting the degree of "bachelor in original research" (presumably to be abbreviated into B. R.) it is affording students who are specially interested in one or other department of study a golden opportunity to work wholeheartedly at their specialty.

A three years' course is necessary to obtain the degree. During the first two years the candidate is required to pass preliminary examinations in the subjects or departments he wishes to take up, together with such allied subjects as may be deemed desirable by the faculty to which he attaches himself, but during the third year he is free to specialize. The degree itself is granted on a thesis dealing with some special work, the result of the third year's separate study, and referred to a special board of examiners for adjudication.

No restrictions, apparently, are placed on candidates as to what lines they should follow, and it is reasonable to expect that a large number of those who avail themselves of the new regulations will embark on scientific research. The opportunities for original work in medical science are particularly good in New Zealand, and it will be interesting to see whether or not the new departure of the university will further such work.

MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

Copyright: 1907: By the Marquise de Fontenoy.

AGENOR DE GRAMONT, eleventh duke of his line, having married, first, Princess Isabel de Beauvau-Craon—a marriage de convenance arranged by his parents—and, secondly, Baroness Marguerite de Rothschild, for the sake of her colossal fortune, has now contracted a love match with Dona Maria Ruspoli, near a quarter of a century his junior, and sister of that Don Enrico Ruspoli who, five years ago, married at Washington the widowed Mrs. Bruton, a Georgian by birth. The wedding has just taken place, with much pomp and ceremony, at Paris, in the church of St. Pierre de Chaillot, and while the duke's brothers, the Duc de Lesparre and Count Alfred de Gramont, were present at the ceremony, his children by his first and his second wives were noticeable by their absence.

The De Gramonts of today may claim to have in their veins the blood of that most popular of all French monarchs, King Henry IV., Corisande de Gramont, wife of Philibert de Gramont, Comte de Guiche, having been one of the dearest friends and acknowledged favorites of that sovereign. In fact, Henry IV. offered to confer one of his own dukedoms, that of Vendome, as well as the arms of France, brised by a bar sinister, upon the son to whom la belle Corisande gave birth, and of which he was acknowledgedly the father. But the young fellow had the good sense to decline the honor, preferring the historic name of Gramont to one which would have placed on record not merely for his contemporaries but likewise for the history of all time his mother's frailty and her husband's complaisance.

The correspondence of Henry IV. and Corisande is still preserved in the national library and constitutes probably the most valuable contribution to the history of the epoch. His son, in turn, the Count Philibert de Gramont, the hero of the famous "Memoirs" written by his brother-in-law, Anthony Hamilton, never ceased to regret, both at the court of Versailles and at that of Charles II. in London, that he missed becoming in this fashion a recognized member, even if illegitimate, of the reigning family.

It was this Count de Gramont who, when exiled from France for venturing to make love to King Louis XIV.'s favorite, Mlle. de la Motte-Houdancourt, took up his residence in England, where he became one of the principal figures at the dissolute court of Charles II. A record of some of his affairs de cœur will be found in the famous "Memoirs" above mentioned, compiled by his brother-in-law, who was really responsible for his marriage; for the count, having compromised a daughter of the ducal house of Hamilton, fled in order to escape vengeance of her brothers. The latter overtook him at Dover, just as he was about to embark for France, and exclaimed: "Have you not forgotten something, Count de Gramont?"

"Yes," he replied at once, "how stupid of me! I had forgotten to marry your sister. I will return at once to do so." And the marriage took place in the presence of the entire English court, and constitutes the theme of Molière's well known comedy, "Un Mariage Force."

His elder brother was the famous Marshal de Gramont, celebrated as the handsomest man of his day, and who in recognition of his many victories and of his services as a statesman and diplomat was created duke of Gramont. He had married in his youth a niece of Cardinal Richelieu, and had been a particular favorite of that prelate. It is said that on one occasion when having entered the cardinal's room unannounced and found that stately prelate engaged in most extraordinary gymnastic exercises, more suitable for a soldier than for a churchman, he dispelled the cardinal's anger by matching him in vaulting over the writing table.

During the eighteenth century the dukedoms of Guiche, now always borne by the eldest son of the Duc de Gramont, and of Lesparre, were added to the honors of the house, while their title of prince of Bidache was confirmed. It had belonged to the old petty sovereign house of Gramont, which flourished at the time of the Crusades on the Spanish borders, and which really came to an end at the beginning of the sixteenth century, when Menaud d'Aure, head of an old feudal house of the county of Bigorre, married Claire de Gramont, last survivor and sole heiress of the De Gramont family, her husband assuming, with the sanction of the crown, the arms and name of his wife instead of his own.

French history abounds with mentions of famous generals, courtiers, statesmen, and prelates who have borne the name of De Gramont, and the wife of the sixth duke, Beatrice de Choiseul, great-grandmother of the present duke, perished on the scaffold, along with other nobles, by means of the guillotine in the days of the Terror.

Her grandson was for many years French ambassador at Vienna and occupied the post of minister of foreign affairs at the time of the outbreak of the French war with Germany in 1870. Indeed, at first he was denounced as partly responsible for this, to France, so disastrous conflict; but subsequent revelations have shown that de Gramont would have been powerless under any circumstances to prevent this struggle, so necessary to Bismarck's plans for the organization of the present German empire.

He was a handsome man and bore a striking resemblance to his cousin, the famous Count d'Orsay. His wife was a Scotchwoman, a Miss McKinnon, daughter of a member of parliament of that name, and it is perhaps on this account that her three sons, the present Duc de Gramont and his brothers, speak English so perfectly and with such musically toned voices. For there is no more musically toned voice in the world than that of the Scotchwoman, no matter what her rank. Indeed, it is on this account that Scotch nurses are in such great demand among all the reigning houses of Europe and in the principal families of the continental aristocracy.

The dukes of Gramont hail from the extreme south of France, that is to say, from the Pyrennees, and must not be confounded with the Burgundy de Grammonts, who spell their names with two "ems" instead of one, and who include among the most famous scions of their family St. Theodule, who was bishop of Sion under Emperor Charlemagne.

The Roman house of Ruspoli, into which the Duc de Gramont has now married, has quite recently been described in these letters. Its head holds the hereditary office of master of the sacred hospice and of grand chamberlain to the pope, and it traces its ancestry to the ancient Scotch house of Marischal, members of which came to Italy in the train of Emperor Frederick I., where one of them, John Francis Mariscotti, married in 1652 Victoria Ruspoli, the last survivor of the old Siennese house of Ruspoli, obtaining from the papacy the authority to adopt her name and armorial bearings, along with her vast possessions. There is no Roman house that has a larger number of matrimonial alliances with Americans to its record.

From Lake Placid I receive a marked copy of the New York Herald of Sunday, Aug. 7, in which the name of one of the visitors there is given as "the Hon. Miss Emily Bird, third daughter of the earl of Carrick," who is recorded as staying there with Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Lyman of New York, and I am asked if the lady in question is really entitled by English usage to the prefix of "Honorable." I am afraid that there must be a mistake somewhere. For the family name of the earl of Carrick is not "Bird," but "Butler," and Lord Carrick has but one daughter, Lady Kathleen, born thirty-one years ago, who married in March, 1897, Walter Charles Lindsay, by whom she has several children. She is now known as Lady Kathleen Lindsay. The present Lord Carrick is the sixth earl, and as both the fifth and fourth earls died unmarried, and as the third earl, who died as far back as 1838, left three daughters, who all married and are now dead, I do not see how the Miss Emily Bird, regarding whose alleged nobiliary parentage I am questioned, can possibly be the third daughter of Lord Carrick, or entitled as such to the prefix of "Honorable." I may add that if she were the daughter of an earl she would be entitled to the prefix of "Lady" to her Christian name, instead of the predicate of "Honorable."

DEATH STIRS GATES MYSTERY

Alexander Jester, Accused of Killing Millionaire's Brother, Dies.

EVADED TRIAL MANY YEARS.

Sister Betrayed Him; Jury Acquital Led Dual Life to Old Age.

Aurora, Mo., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Information has reached this city through Postmaster J. J. Burke of Norman, Okla., of the death at Cushing, Okla., of Alexander Jester, alias William A. Hill, aged over 90 years, who was tried at New London, Mo., in July, 1900, for the murder of Gilbert W. Gates, brother of John W. Gates, the New York and Chicago steel king and multimillionaire, the crime having occurred in February, 1871. The old man died on Aug. 7 at the home of his daughter, Alice Jester, and was buried at Shawnee, Okla.

Jester in the winter of 1871 departed from Wichita, Kas., with a "prairie schooner," in which was a trained buffalo calf, en route to his former home in Indiana. He left on his ranch a family consisting of a wife and two children. On reaching the Missouri state line he came up with Gilbert Gates and together they traveled until reaching a small town called Mulberry Grove in Audrain county. At this point the young man mysteriously disappeared and from there on old man Jester was seen with both his own and Gates' outfit. Gates was traveling to his home in St. Charles, Ill., and had written his parents that he was en route. His last letter to his parents was mailed only a few hours before his sudden disappearance.

Through Illinois and on into Indiana Jester traveled, exhibiting his buffalo calf, disposing of some of the property that was Gates', and reached Bedford, Ind. After resting a few days he resumed his journey back to Kansas, taking with him his sister and family, they driving the Gates outfit.

Begin Search for Missing Man.

Azel A. Gates, the father of the boy, became alarmed at his nonarrival, and fearing that some disaster had befallen him left his home in search of his son. For days he failed to find any trace of him, until at last it was discovered that he was traveling with Jester, and on reaching Hannibal, Mo., he found that Jester had both wagons. From that point on to Indiana it was easy to trace the outfit. On arriving at Bedford he found that Jester had returned to Kansas, and A. A. Gates reached Wichita before Jester arrived. He had by this time concluded that his boy was dead and that Jester was the murderer.

Jester arrived at his home late in the afternoon, and awaiting him was the sheriff and Azel A. Gates. Jester was immediately put under arrest—even before he was allowed to enter his home. The Gates wagon was with him and so were practically all the trinkets that the boy had taken with him. On the head of one of the children was Gilbert's hat and even Jester was wearing the Gates boy's vest. The team was taken to Wichita. Jester was given a preliminary hearing, at which he stated that he had purchased all the things of the Gates boy and that Gates had gone to his home.

Jester was taken to Mexico, Mo., and placed in the Audrain county jail to await trial. A few months later he, with several others, escaped jail. He returned to Wichita and remained only one night, when he left his family forever, never seeing but one of them since. He went to Texas, changed his name to William A. Hill, and took up life anew. He was past 50 years of age. He was married three times while living twenty-five years in Texas. He entered the ministry and was noted for his fervid piety, and it is a matter of record that he dedicated at least one church. But his neighbors were always suspicious of him and many looked upon him as a criminal.

Jester's Identity Discovered.

After Jester's divorce from his fourth wife his identity became known to his sister, Mrs. Street, with whom he traveled from Indiana, and as she was growing old and having quite a sum of money she agreed that if he would not marry again she would purchase a home for both of them and they would spend the remaining days of their lives in comfort and ease. To this plan Jester agreed and the property was purchased. When the deed was made, instead of being made out to the rightful owner, Mrs. Street, Jester had it made out to himself. Only a short time elapsed until for the fifth time Jester began preparations for entering the matrimonial state, and when the fact became known to Mrs. Street she insisted that their compact be carried out, but this Jester refused. Exasperated at the thought that in her declining years she should be the victim of her brother's duplicity, she addressed a letter to John W. Gates telling him of the rightful name of the accused murderer of his brother and where he lived. This information was the first that the authorities had received of Jester since he had escaped from the Mexico jail twenty-eight years before.

Mr. Gates chartered a special train, took with him the proper officers, and succeeded in placing the old man under arrest. At first he denied his identity, but later admitted that he was Alexander Jester, and gave a lurid account of his life since his escape from jail.

Faces Trial for Ancient Crime.

A change of venue was taken from Audrain county and the case sent to Ralls, and Jester confined in the jail at New London, where in July, 1900, over twenty-nine years after the crime had been committed, he was brought to trial. John W. Gates secured as counsel to prosecute Jester Gov. Charles P. Johnson of St. Louis, W. S. Forrest of Chicago, and several others. Jester had as counsel P. H. Cullen of Mexico, Mo., J. A. Allison of New London, and J. S. McIntyre of St. Louis, and after five weeks of trial was acquitted, the state being unable to prove that Gilbert Gates was dead, the corpus delecti being lacking.

NEWS OF THE THEATERS.

THE RED MILL.

A Musical Play in Two Acts.

BY

HENRY BLOSSOM and VICTOR HERBERT.

Presented at the Grand Opera House, Chicago, by David Montgomery, Fred A. Stone, and Their Company, Aug. 18, 1907. The Cast:

"Con" Kidder	Fred A. Stone
"Kid" Conner	David Montgomery
Jan Van Borkem	Edward Begley
Franz	Charles Dox
Willem	David L. Don
Capt. Doris Van Damm	Stanley Hawkins
The Governor of Zeeland	Neal McCay
Joshua Pennefeather	Claude Cooper
Gretchen	Julia Bruer
Bertha	Aline Crater
Tina	Ethel Johnson
Countess de la Fère	Juliette Dika

Resplendent in green and gold, the Grand Opera house reopened for the season last night, offering as the initial attraction David Montgomery and Fred Stone in the Blossom-Herbert musical farce, "The Red Mill." The color scheme of green and gold has been followed throughout in the hangings, the carpets, and the upholstery in both the foyer and auditorium and the new decorations reflect credit on Manager Harry L. Hamlin, whose ideas they embody.

The double event of the renovated theater and the return of two such personally popular entertainers as Montgomery and Stone brought the heartiest of welcomes from the audience. Before the first act was half over there were calls of "speech, speech," but the homecoming players wisely refrained until the intermission came, when Mr. Stone responded with a few words of thanks. Later in the second act when the demands for repetitions of the "In Old New York" number threatened to prolong the performance indefinitely, Mr. Montgomery voiced his appreciation.

"The Red Mill" has a plot which is followed consistently throughout, and its music is pleasant at all times. It is produced with unusual care and attention to the minutest details. It lacks the chic elegance of that other Blossom-Herbert piece, "Mlle. Modiste," only in that it was written with the peculiar talents of the present comedians in view, while the earlier work had for its inspiration the bewitching personality of Mme. Fritzi Scheff.

Victor Herbert's music is written largely for strings only and consequently it ripples and trembles with effect. There are numbers which hark back to other Herbert compositions, but the recollection is ever an agreeable one. There are few ensemble numbers, as the full chorus is used only occasionally. The opening chorus of Dutch maidens and artists is good. In turn follows the topical duet by Willem and the burgomaster with a dance accompaniment humoresque. Miss Johnson's entrance solo, "Mignonette," is also taking, and the "Go While the Going Is Good" quartet, by Miss Crater, Miss Johnson, and Montgomery and Stone will be among the most popular numbers in the score. In act two the most pleasing numbers were the "Legend of the Red Mill," sung by Miss Crater; "Every Day Is Lady's Day with Me," which falls to Mr. McCay; "Because You're You," sung by Miss Crater and Mr. McCay, assisted by a chorus of Dutch kiddies, and the "In Old New York," given by Mr. Montgomery and Mr. Stone and the full chorus.

The story is simple. Con Kidder and Kid Connor are two Americans stranded at a small Dutch inn at Katwyk-ann-Zee. They have come to the end of their financial resources and are in debt for a week's board. They are about to make their escape by means of a blanket rope from an upstairs window when they are detected by the burgomaster and only saved from imprisonment when they offer to work out their indebtedness. Kidder, who professes to being somewhat of a linguist, is made interpreter at the inn and Connor becomes a waiter. Kidder has but a scant knowledge of French, and when he is confronted by an irate French countess, who does not understand English, his attempts at conversation are laughable.

Gretchen, the burgomaster's daughter, is betrothed to the governor of Zeeland, an old fop and roué, and to escape this marriage she plans an elopement with Doris Van Damm, a young sea captain. The Americans promise to aid the elopers in return for a passage to America. However, the plans are discovered by the burgomaster and the prospective bride is locked in the red mill until the arrival of the governor. Connor and Kidder rescue Gretchen by bringing her down on the sails of the windmill.

The second act is placed in the hall at the burgomaster's house. The governor has arrived, but his bride is missing. The father offers a large reward for the return of the girl, and on the advice of the sheriff sends to The Hague for Sherlock Holmes and Dr. Watson. Connor and Kidder intercept the wire and present themselves as the detective and his friend, and in a clever burlesque scene they take off the Gillette play. At the opportune moment Gretchen is returned as the bride of Doris, and the reward enables the Americans to return home.

Mr. Montgomery and Mr. Stone are the same ingratiating, thoroughly amusing comedians they have always been. They danced as nimbly and acrobatically as ever. But their rôles are not those of the Scarecrow and the Tin Woodman. Tailor made clothes have robbed many a comedian of his reputation, and the mental picture of the Scarecrow will outlive that of Con Kidder.

Miss Ethel Johnson is attractive as the barmaid. Miss Crater is a good burgomaster's sister. The other rôles are in competent hands.

THE GIRL QUESTION.

A Comedy with Music in Three Acts.

BY

WILL M. HOUGH, FRANK R. ADAMS, and JOSEPH E. HOWARD.

Presented at the La Salle theater, Chicago, by Mort H. Singer, Aug. 17, 1907. The cast:

Elsie Davis	Nena Blake
Joe Forster	Georgia Drew Mendum
A Reporter	Zeke Colvin
T. P. G. Sears	Arthur Sanders
Con Ryan	Junie McCree
Billy	William Robinson
Harold Sears	Tell Taylor
Mrs. Jessie Sears	Frances Demarest
Baron Max von Tesmar	Lee Kohlmar

Whatever honors are due in "The Girl Question," the new La Salle production which had its local première Saturday night, belong to Ned Wayburn, under whose direction the piece has been staged. From the standpoint of a production "The Girl Question" is distinctly in advance of anything that has been offered at the La Salle hitherto, but the work of the librettists, Messrs. Hough and Adams, does not fulfill the promise of a year ago.

These young men have ideas which are original, but they seem unable to carry them beyond a certain point, and then in their extremity they pattern certain of their characters after those created by other dramatists. The character of T. P. G. Sears is modeled after that of the elder Ryder in "The Lion and the Mouse." In Mrs. Sears an attempt has been made to create a character of the gossipy, loquacious type, which Miss Janvier played with so much success in "Fifty Miles from Boston."

The humor of the lines and the comedy of the scenes are lacking in variety and spontaneity. There are puns galore, and the usual grist of slang expressions.

The hit of the performance is made by the smaller girls of the chorus who take part in "The Imitation Craze." This portion of the entertainment is a variant on the imitation numbers common to musical plays of the present time, in that the imitation is not offered by a single player but by groups of ten or twelve. The first part is devoted to a burlesque of Anna Held's "Kissing" song from "The Parisian Model," the chorus girls being garbed in the tight fitting black satin gowns affected by the French actress. They are followed by the men of the chorus in a fairly acceptable impersonation of George M. Cohan's rendition of "The Grand Old Flag." Then come the "Broilers" in abbreviated skirts and imitation ermine coats, caps and muffs, with a facial make-up remarkably like Eddie Foy's. In voices husky and with much of the Foy drollery, they sing the "Camel" song from "The Earl and the Girl." One little coryphee succeeded in reproducing the Foy expression as completely as Elsie Janis ever did, and rounds of applause and many encores were awarded the clever conceit.

Junie McCree is not happily placed as Con. Lee Kohlmar, who played the German 'cellist in "The Music Master," does a character part well and gives an imitation of David Warfield with considerable fidelity. Miss Mendum is pert and flippant as the waitress and occasionally sincere and convincing. Miss Blake is the apple cheeked and auburn haired Elsie, and does the little required with acceptability. Miss Demarest is dashing as the young Mrs. Sears and sings acceptably.

FOUR GRANDCHILDREN SENT TO "TRIBUNE" HOSPITAL.

The following contributions to "The Tribune" summer hospital and free ice fund have been received:

Previously acknowledged	$5,360.93
Mrs. E. H. Sargent	5.00
R. E. S.	10.00
A. W. Purvin	1.00
Total	$5,376.93

Contributions may be mailed to "The Tribune" office. Checks should be made payable to F. H. Rawson, treasurer. Contributors may designate whether they want their funds to be credited to the "maintenance" or "building" fund. All contributions will be promptly acknowledged.

"Is this the place?" questioned the thin voice. "Is this the place where they take care of poor, sick little darlings?"

A frail figure in black, bent with age and hobbling on a cane, made her way through the throng of the crippled and infirm that pressed around Miss Holmes' desk in the office of the bureau of charities Saturday morning.

"Is this where you take children for THE TRIBUNE hospital?" the voice went on as Grandmother Quinn adjusted her sunbleached bonnet and pressed a hand to her eyes as if to clear the failing sight. Anticipating the reply, the aged applicant extended a shaking hand to Miss Holmes and then went on speaking.

"My daughter, Mrs. McGuire," she said, "is sick a-bed with the fever, and her little children are jist getting well of it. I thought maybe you might be good enough to send them all out to THE TRIBUNE hospital, as I'm afraid they'll never get well where they are in the midst of all the heat and the dirt and the racket. There are four of them—Elsie, and Tommy, and Margie, and Jim. Margie's the youngest. She's 6 weeks old to the day."

"I'll have the case investigated," replied Miss Holmes kindly, "and I'll let you know this afternoon. I think we shall be able to take them."

"Thank you, thank you, ma'am," murmured the grandmother, brushing away a tear. "I'm sure you'll do it."

An hour later an agent of the bureau of charities reached the little gray house of the McGuires in the shadow of the rambling tenements that wall the streets that run toward the river from Wells street. She found Mrs. McGuire lying on a narrow cot burning up with fever, and she found Margie, and Tom, and Elsie, and Jim, pale and wan, gathered on the floor near the mother's bed. Elsie was holding little Margie tightly in her arms and feeding the infant from an unclean bottle.

"You see, I told you the truth, didn't I?" ventured the grandmother as she limped into the room and gave some cool water to the suffering mother.

At daybreak yesterday the children were ready for the trip to Algonquin and it was a long wait for their impatience until time for the 8 o'clock train to leave the Northwestern depot. And when the train finally moved out of the depot Elsie clapped her hands with glee.

"And mother will come, too, when she's well enough, won't she?" cried the child.

"Yes," answered the nurse, "she will come, too, when she is well enough."

GASOLINE POWER.

[From the Outing Magazine.]

Comparatively few country homes have, as yet, a system of water works which supplies water to all parts of the house. But we are speedily coming to that. The day isn't far off when the pump will no longer be operated by hand, and water will be at our service "upstairs, downstairs, and in my lady's chamber." This is as it should be, for the household that is obliged to make many trips to the pump in the yard daily wastes a good deal of time and labor that might better be applied to other work.

The small gasoline engine is going to solve the problem of water supply for the house for us. It is going to do away with the noisy, unsightly, and complicated windmill. It can easily be made to pump from the well or other source of water supply to the attic of the house, from which it can be distributed everywhere in pipes. Such a system can be put into any house with but little trouble, at any time, if open plumbing is not objected to, and nowadays most persons prefer that to the concealed system. Large tanks or reservoirs will not be needed, for a few minutes' operation of the engine each day will be sufficient to lift all the water required during twenty-four hours. The fresher it is the better.

The services of a plumber will be necessary, of course, in installing such a system, but, this once done, and done well, there ought to be little expense connected with it thereafter. Pipes leading to rooms in which there is not sufficient heat in winter to prevent their freezing should be so arranged that the water can be shut off from them by valves near the tank. Should there be any danger of the tank's freezing in severely cold weather, it can be emptied at night by opening the valves of the pipes connected with it and letting off the water through the pipe which carries it to drain or outlet. The tank can be refilled so easily and so rapidly in the morning that there need be no annoyance because of lack of water for household use.

If "the man who attends to things" starts the engine when he goes to the basement to see to the fire there will be plenty of water on hand when the people in the kitchen get around to make use of it. The convenience of running water in each room is never fully appreciated until one puts such a system in operation. Then he will wonder how he ever got along without it.

STRANGE ANTIQUITY OF EGYPT.

[Harriet Quimby in Leslie's Weekly.]

Many tourists who have crossed the Mediterranean to Alexandria and have made the three hour journey thence by express to Cairo, establish themselves in one of the fashionable hotels, do a little shopping in the native quarter, see a mosque or two, a native wedding, ride a camel the quarter mile distance from the Mena house to the sphinx, and perhaps go as far as to visit Saqqara—a day's excursion from Cairo—then return homeward fancying, and also declaring, that they have seen Egypt.

So they have, in a sense; but Cairo is no more representative of Egypt as a country than New York is of the entire United States.

To see upper Egypt, with its fellaheen life, its mud cities, and its quaint scenery, is like turning the leaves of an old history and studying the engravings, for neither the country nor the people has changed to any appreciable degree since the days of Mohammed, unless it be in the accomplishment in which all seem to be equally well trained—that of begging backsheesh. Egypt is spoken of as becoming modernized, but there is no indication of anything more modern than two thousand years ago between Cairo and Luxor—or, more properly, the little English city of Kom Ombo, beyond Luxor, where an English company has been formed and agricultural experiments are being carried forward.

HINTS for ENTERTAINMENTS

Butterfly Dinner.

Summer time has no symbol more lovely and suggestive than the butterfly emerging from its dark chrysalis into the sunshine, but we seldom ever remember the beautiful thing when we entertain, although nothing could be more graceful and charming for a centerpiece for a summer dinner party.

For a dinner centerpiece select a large flat basket similar in shape to your table, round, oval, or oblong, and fill it with well blown roses. Over these arrange a little swarm of butterflies on movable wires, each one fastened to a rose, so that it will not be stiff, but will move in any breath of air. These butterflies may be bought in large sheets, beautifully embossed and colored, at any stationer's, or they may be cut from cardboard and painted with water colors. Have candles which match the color of the roses, with white or pale colored shades decorated with little butterflies. For guest cards choose plain ones, either oblong or in narrow, long shape, with a butterfly on each. For your final course at dinner have ices molded in the form of butterflies, made of two colors, white and pink, green or chocolate, and lay each one on an asparagus fern or on a large natural rose. For a menu have:

Canapes of anchovies and cheese.
Clear soup, printaniere.
Radishes, salted nuts, olives.
Shad roe, with dressed cucumbers.
Chicken mousse in a circle.
Mold with whipped potato; mushroom.
Crown roast of lamb filled with new carrots and turnips.
Creamed Bermuda potatoes.
Asparagus salad.
Ices in butterfly forms; small cakes.
Toasted wafers, cheese, coffee.

IN THE SHOPS

Compact Lamp Outfits.

Although alcohol and spirit irons have been shown in the shops for some time, the idea of putting up an outfit in a compact little case is new, the dimensions being about eight by five inches. The outfit consists of a nickel plated flatiron with an enameled hardwood handle, the latter having a layer of asbestos placed between it and the iron to prevent overheating of the handle. A nickel plated cylindrical flask for alcohol, a metal hearth, upon which the generation of gas from the spirit can be started, an ironing cloth, and a nickel plated stand are included in the outfit. The cases are made of heavy imitation leather and are decorated with ornamental nickel plated fasteners. The complete outfit costs $4.50.

Jointed Plush Cats.

Animal toys of all kinds are much the rage at the present time, and one of the latest productions along this line is one of the best articles displayed on the toy counters. This is a lifelike kitten of the jointed and stuffed variety, of the same nature as the famous Teddy bear. The kittens are equipped with "squeakers," have artificial eyes, and also have long bristles simulating whiskers inserted at the sides of the mouth. They come in two sizes, for $1 and $2.

Skirt Gauge.

A skirt gauge with which to measure the depth of a hem from the floor costs 25 cents. This convenient article for the home dressmaker consists of an upright holding a piece of French chalk and marked with a scale of inches. The chalk marker can be raised or lowered as desired.

SEWING ROOM

Knitted Ties.

Sisters and sweethearts now are busy knitting ties for their brothers and other girls' brothers. These ties are the rage among fashionable men, and are made of the mercerized cotton, which comes at 5 cents the spool in almost every shade. They are knitted on steel needles just as the leg of a stocking is, round and round, and of the plain stitch which the child of 7 can do. Some are of plain colors, others are of two shades knitted so that they form a striped effect, while still others are made of the two toned cotton which, when done in the blue and green combination, makes a fine tie. These ties are long and narrow, and are tied in the easy four-in-hand style. They have taken the place of the washable ties of madras and silk, as they not only are washable but need no ironing, only a gentle pulling. For wear with a negligee shirt they are absolutely the thing. Knitting is so much the fad at present that more than one fashionable woman carries about a small fancy bag of such work, and children are taught to mend their tired nerves by doing plain stitches on knitting needles. The princess of Wales has taught all of her children to knit, even her young son, who is an adept at the art, and a part of each day is spent by these royal children in making scarfs, lace, or other fancy work on needles. Knitting or crocheting is said to be a tonic for tired nerves, and a trial will prove it, since while counting stitches no disturbing thoughts can gain entrance to the mind, which rests automatically. It is like gardening, which is said to be the finest aid to nervousness known, since it combines gentle exercise, fresh air, and pleasant anticipations.

Investigate Women's Exchanges.

In the "Each Woman According to Her Needs" department of THE DAILY TRIBUNE, Aug. 6, I find a communication favoring women's exchanges as a medium for disposing of work that can be done at home, such as plain or fancy sewing, decorative and artistic work, point lace, and embroidery. The writer evidently offered her suggestions in a spirit of helpfulness to women desirous of earning money. In the same spirit I advise women to investigate any woman's exchange and insist on names and correspondence with some of its members before paying the $2 membership fee required for placing work on sale.

Through circulars sent out by a Chicago exchange I learned on inquiry that they occupied two front rooms in one of the largest office buildings just off the busiest center of State street; that their sales prices were remarkably high, and they would take anything in fancywork and dispose of it for a $2 membership fee and a reasonable per cent on the sale price. I do expert point lace work, and as their proposition looked fair I sent them $2 and handkerchiefs, collar, cap, and doilies that would have netted me $25 at home prices, and I of course expected more in the city. I wrote them to cut my plainly marked price on each article if they considered it too high.

I persuaded a friend to take a membership and she sent work of a kind and price that would be in demand anywhere.

Months passed and to our letters of inquiry came only a printed slip stating money would be sent when sales were made. Christmas and Easter passed and no sales, though we had written the exchange to sell the work at any reasonable price.

Finally we wrote for our work and it was returned, carelessly tied, half torn open, and hopelessly ruined. My handkerchiefs were torn in the centers, collar bore evidence of having been worn, and other articles stained and torn past selling. My friend's work was in the same ruined condition. My letter demanding damages was treated with silence until I wrote declaring I would expose their method of dealing, when a letter was sent me stating the manager was out of town for three months. On my insistent reply she "returned" suddenly—the next day, in fact—and stated she was ill, but would see me personally soon.

I waited some time and wrote again, when she replied with the statement she had gone out of business.

Inquiry of Chicago friends revealed the fact that while this exchange had thrived for years on the $2 membership fees (no doubt sent in by hundreds of women), yet their prices for even the simplest articles were so abnormally high as to prevent any sales or return of money to members.

About the same time the Woman's Home Companion and the Worker's Magazine of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE published short articles advising women to investigate so-called women's exchanges as a medium for disposing of work for the $2 membership fee. These articles gave instances of experiences identical with mine.

New Woman Should Help Husband.

Yes, by all means the "new woman" should help her husband. He is at work all day, perhaps, and she feels that she can do something, too, to help. Perhaps she has worked before marriage and she loves her work. Then why not let her? Besides, she finds enjoyment in it as well. And, furthermore, she needs to feel as free after marriage as she did before marriage, which makes it pleasanter for both parties. She goes to work in her own way as she sees clearly fit, and her work makes her better for it. S. E. B.

ALL AROUND THE HOUSE

Cedar Chest Substitute.

Strip off green prickles and young twigs of cedar and put in cheesecloth bags. Remove all grease spots; sun, and brush thoroughly. Pack furs and woolens away, with the bags distributed through them, and not a moth will bother them. WINIFRED DENNING.

* *

Wet Umbrellas.

Stand on their handles to dry. This allows the water to run out of them instead of into the part where the ribs and silk meet, thus causing the metal to rust and the silk to rot. MISS JENNIE M. LEEDS.

* *

Burglar Protection.

Place a pair of hinges one and one-half inches long, one side of each hinge being screwed on either side of the upper sash, about ten inches above the lower sash. By opening the unscrewed side of the hinge the window can be raised, lowered, or both, for ten inches, and so left with safety. By closing the hinge the window can be raised or lowered to its full extent as usual. LOUISE M. LANDOLT.

IN THE KITCHEN

To Beautify the Kitchen.

Place some of THE TRIBUNE'S beautiful pictures on the kitchen walls, to rest your weary self as you look up. Scenery especially carries one in spirit to a higher plane than a blank wall. Have one right over the sink. They might make our housemaids more contented. M. A. MACKIN.

* *

Potato Masher Saves Time.

Instead of the laborious method of creaming butter and sugar for cake with a spoon, use a wooden potato masher, and in a few moments the butter and sugar are creamed perfectly smooth. MRS. R. W. GRINTON.

* *

Make Jar Tops Air Tight.

In canning fruit, after the lid is screwed down tight there often is an airhole in spite of all the cans having been tested thoroughly before filling with fruit. Instead of emptying or putting on other lids rub a piece of laundry soap over the airhole, patting it down well with the fingers, and leave undisturbed until cold, when it will be hard and perfectly air tight. MRS. C. H. INGALS.

RENOVATING AND CLEANING

White Spots on Furniture.

Cover the spots well with sweet oil, rubbing it a little, and let stand for two hours. Wet a flannel with alcohol and rub the spots hard, and the white spots on the furniture will be removed. CARRIE A. LEWIS.

* *

To Clean Copper Utensils.

Take a handful of common salt, enough vinegar and flour to make a paste and mix together thoroughly. There is nothing better for cleaning copper utensils. After using the paste wash thoroughly with hot water; rinse in cold water and wipe dry. MRS. C. VINTON HENRY.

* *

To Keep Eye Glasses Bright.

To polish and clean eye glasses and prevent moisture from forming on them in cold weather rub them with transparent glycerin soap and then wipe them off. ADA M. DORE.

The BOUDOIR

Demoralizing Sunburn.

The finger of scorn should be pointed at the score of reckless sun bathers who are wholly unfitted, either by complexion or experience, to endure the untempered heat of our summer suns; they nevertheless cherish an ambition to acquire a certain bronze color on neck, arms, and face which will at once proclaim them denizens of the summer resort.

To say that there was anything demoralising in such protracted sunbaths perhaps would be going too far, but they certainly have their influence. Take the seacoast or summer resort trains which are met by bands of savages, their faces tanned to a deep mahogany, their collars turned in, and their sleeves rolled up; they are not unlike the natives of some tropic island. There is a deal of whooping when the astonished pale face descends from the train and is carried away by the indecorous South Sea islanders.

Certainly not one woman in a hundred has a skin that can endure being weather beaten, and it is an open question whether they really enjoy the tanning or not. Even those skins which do not peel or freckle are coarsened decidedly by the exposure. A broad shaded hat will ward away that look of being ready for the polisher.

* *

To Darken Eyebrows.

Two ounces of red vaseline, one dram of tincture of cantharides, fifteen drops of oil of lavender, and fifteen drops of oil of rosemary. Rub this into the brows every night and the next morning form into a fine, curved line with a camel's hair brush. This will tend to darken them slightly.

In the Laundry

Seersucker Clothes.

Much ironing can be saved by having house dresses, aprons, and such made from the old-fashioned seersucker. It washes easily, is cool and pretty, and all it requires is a little shaking and smoothing to have it look like new. MRS. L. K. HOOD.

* *

Washing White Waists.

A good way to wash white shirt waists is to boil them in strong suds into which has been poured a small quantity of kerosene. Remove from suds, rinse thoroughly, and hang out to dry. This process does away with all rubbing. MISS QUIMBY.

HOUSEKEEPER'S CALENDAR.

Conducted by the School of Domestic Arts and Science.

Hygiene has taught the necessity for individual clothes and this is generally accepted and now we are coming to the necessity of individual towels as far as possible. The present fashion of buying toweling by the yard and making individual towels with hemstitched and cross stitched and buttonholed edging gives a charming opportunity for combining hygiene and art, and the little girls of the household can learn their cross stitch in putting on the initials of the different members of the family in small cross stitch letters. But you say what complications. There are no more towels used in a week and the individual use of each set of towels is assured, and if any member of the family transgresses a reasonable amount the culprit is easily traced. In public institutions and hospitals this matter is being insisted upon and doubtless it should be in all homes, but especially in those where disease is either lurking or an acknowledged guest.

TESTED RECIPES

Brown Bread.

Use one cupful of cornmeal, one tablespoonful of salt, three tablespoonfuls of sugar, one cupful of boiling water, two cupfuls of sour milk, one cupful of molasses, two teaspoonfuls of soda, one in the milk, one in the molasses; brown flour enough to make a stiff batter. Bake in three small loaves in a moderate oven for one hour. A half pound of raisins added is a great improvement. MRS. M. D. HALL.

Stuffed Cucumbers.

Cut an eighth or a quarter from the cucumber, scoop out the inside, cut this and one tomato in small bits; return to the shell, and put each cucumber on a plate, on lettuce leaf. Small round balls of cream cheese make a good decoration and add a nice flavor. MRS. V. KRAUCH.

* *

Creamed Asparagus.

After cooking the vegetable, drain it free from water and arrange six stalks on toasted bread, thinly buttered. Place a tablespoonful of sauce on top and cover with the sifted yolk of one hard boiled egg.

Sauce: Place in sauce pan two level tablespoonfuls of butter and, when melted, stir into it two level tablespoonfuls of flour. When dissolved, add one cupful of milk, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of pepper, and stir until creamy. MRS. G. S. MCKAY.

* *

Cucumber Pickles.

Use the smallest cucumbers you can procure. Make a brine of one pint of salt to a gallon of water, and let them remain two days in this. To one gallon of best cider vinegar add one cup of sugar, one tablespoonful of mustard seed, one teaspoonful of pepper corns, one of cloves, and a dozen blades of mace. Put the spices in bags, add them and the sugar to the vinegar, bring to a boil, and pour over the cucumbers. Repeat this four mornings; seal while hot and drop a small piece of alum in jar. MRS. C. A. PYLE.

* *

Clam Soup.

One heaping tablespoonful of butter and two of flour; rub to a cream in a saucepan over the fire and add slowly a quart of rich milk, stirring constantly. When it thickens add celery salt, a bit of cayenne, and a cup of minced clams with their juice; let it boil up once and serve. DORA WILDER.

* *

Black Raspberry Jelly.

Take one peck green crab apples, or any small green apple; wash, stem, and quarter; do not pare. Put in preserving kettle and cover to about half with water. Allow the mixture to cook until apples are mushy. Remove from stove and strain juice through cloth. They may be allowed to cool before straining. At the same time put one quart of black raspberries into a pan and add about one quart of water. Cook until berries are broken up well. Remove from stove and strain through cloth into the apple juice. Measure juice, and to every cup of juice add one cup of sugar. After sugar has been measured put into pan and set in oven to warm. While sugar is warming, place juice on stove and boil thirty minutes. Add sugar and boil twenty minutes longer. MRS. W. M. B.

* *

Snow Cake.

One-quarter cup butter, one-half cup milk, one cup sugar, one and three-quarters cups flour, two heaping teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one teaspoon vanilla, whites of two eggs beaten stiff. Bake in shallow pan. MERTA C. GOULD.

FRILLS ANNOY HETTY GREEN

Summer Girl and Her Little Vanities Just Foolish, She Says.

ADMITS SHE WAS GAY ONCE.

Wore as Many Trimmings as a Christmas Tree; Now She Detests 'Em.

New York, Aug. 18.—[Special.]—"Young girls of today are too extravagant. They think too much about clothes and they don't have enough to do. If they had some useful work to occupy their thoughts they would not run to such extravagance."

So spoke Mrs. Hetty Green, the world's greatest woman financier, as from her corner in the Chemical National bank she watched the tide of girls, young and old, in summer finery, turning toward Brooklyn bridge and Coney Island.

"I speak from experience," she added. "Perhaps you don't know it, but I was quite a belle when I was young. But I outgrew all that sort of thing. These rainbow silks and metal fingers are not to my taste. I used to wear those things. I used to have more fixings and trimmings on me than there is on a Christmas tree. I have more sense now."

She tugged restlessly at the strings which, in a careless, listless sort of way, were holding her tiny bonnet on her head. She spoke in a hoarse, almost inaudible voice, and the most careful concentration was necessary in following her remarks. In one hand she held a much worn, small, black bag. With the other she was constantly doing something, tugging at her cape, pulling or rolling her bonnet strings, or emphasizing her remarks by jerking the lapel of my coat.

She Doesn't Like Society.

"No, I don't like society, and I seldom go out. Last season I went to one reception given in my honor. One reason why I'm so tired today that I can hardly talk to you is that my daughter Sylvia is going away to one of those swell places. I will be busy for a week yet getting her ready."

The bonnet strings received a particularly vigorous tug this time, which said quite plainly that daughter Sylvia was going to visit the social elect with her mother's consent, but not her blessing.

"Society hasn't enough to do to keep it out of mischief. Those so-called fashionable women spend all their time these days at bridge and smoking cigarets and drinking weak tea and strong whisky. Every one of them ought to be down here working, and they would be better off."

Her manner changed to an odd combination of indignation and humor.

Can't Stand the Newly Rich.

"The airs some of those people put on amuse me. Before they got their money some of them made pants for their children out of their husband's old trousers, and now they drive about in their own carriages and hold their noses up in the air. They do not know how to use their money yet. They are not accustomed to it. We had money in our family for four generations. O, they can't teach me anything about that."

She paused in her reminiscences to laugh until tears came to her eyes, and then she added grimly: "But Hetty is living yet."

To describe the real Hetty Green is a difficult task. To describe her clothes and her personal appearance, or, rather, her face, separately, is to create two distinct personages, and only an alchemist could amalgamate the two personages in a single description. But even a mere man recognizes the fact that the clothes and the woman are somehow a part of each other in Hetty Green's case.

One Way to Keep the Air Fresh

Keep the air in the home pure. Almost as well drink filthy water from a pool as inhale foul air. An authority on ventilation says 4 deaths in 10 are due to the influence of foul air. One way to keep the air pure is to burn electric light. An open flame devours the oxygen in a room at a rapid rate. Electric light burning in a vacuum does not affect the surrounding air at all. Electric light is an important aid to the health of the household, and an economic one. Chicago Edison Co., Commonwealth Electric Co., 139 Adams street.

Scholle's Good Furniture
August Furniture Sale

August, like February, is a month of preparation with us. We clear out all of the odd pieces in these months at real bargain prices. The new goods are coming in from day to day and as the old problem of "floor space" remains unsolved, we are forced to make space by vigorous price pruning.

The people who "watch the sales" throng this store in August to pick up the Scholle furniture at bargain prices. It is not "sale" furniture made for the bargain counter, as you will see at once if you come here for the first time this August.

We shall take pleasure in showing you the advance guard of the new fall styles which have just been placed in position on the floors.

Much of it is exclusive with us and all is worth careful study—an exposition representing the very cream of the works of a hundred high class makers of furniture.

Come during the morning hours if convenient, when the store is not so crowded.

BY CHARLES DRYDEN.

When the tail-enders can stick the hook into our Sox and twist it the advent of the real contenders is awaited with more or less eclat. Washington broke the Sabbath by mauling the champs 5 to 2, and it might have been worse.

Little gift enterprises in aid of the needy bestowed two smokeless tallies upon the losers, one each in the first and ninth. Case Patten was tighter than Rockefeller in the matter of paying that fine. The cautious southpaw consented to five singles and not one of them was within reaching distance of the runs. A passed ball scored the first one and the massmeeting Del and Altizer held under a pop fly in the ninth resulted in the second count. Patten is too much of a gent to blank the Sox so soon after the other affair. Whatever else may be said of Case he is no Smith. There is a tinge of pity in his makeup.

Get to Altrock in Fourth.

What the champs lacked in the swatting line was more than offset by the clouting of the Dregs. They displayed a genteel Sabbath modesty about starting something. Not until the fourth round did Nicholas P. Altrock begin to hear funny noises under his bonnet. What he heard then listened like one triple and two singles, the net result being a pair of tallies. But Nick stuck until the close of the seventh. When he desisted the count stood 3 to 1 against us and Patten showed no sign of letting down. His conduct was provoking, to say the least. Yip Owen pitched the supper rounds. The soldier boy was whacked thrice in the ninth inning, the other nine wallops being the exclusive property of Mr. Altrock. A humorous play by McFarland helped the foe to one run at the finish. As they did not require it Mac need not yield to remorse.

The Sox played a smooth and clever fielding game, but fell down with the war sticks. That was their only failing while the visitors were much alive. Jim Block, the Texas kid, put the Dregs into the hurly burly with his triple in the fourth where the tailenders went up in front to remain the rest of the afternoon. Pete O'Brien, the Cleveland castoff, gouged out four of the twelve hits. Like the prodigal he is, Pete wasted all but one of his blows. What the bugs cannot understand is why these hopeless target bearers should rumple the champions who are straining every nerve and tendon and a few toenails to regain the top. That, gentle peruser, is one of the mysteries of the great N. P. i. e.—the national pastime.

Locals Start Well.

For at least three minutes the bugs were heart and soul with Altrock. He was the white robed hero. Glad yelps of hope and gladness rent the arena when Nick hopped to the slab with his face full of ammunition. Two men passed away with ease and abandon, and the tumult of sound was balm to poor Nicholas. But, alas, the next two knocked singles, and around the field swept the howl, "Take 'im out!" The side was dispersed on a grounder to third, and peace fell upon the multitude.

After Hahn had skied Jones and Isbell walked. Donohue forced Isbell. The Jigger stole, and, with Davis up, a passed ball counted Jones. Donohue tried to come in, but was harpooned by Patten on Block's return. Altrock was successful in the next two rounds. O'Brien ripped a double after two gone in the third. Charley Jones struck out. The Sox missed a chance in the third, and it was the one best bet of the day. McFarland walked, but was killed at second on Altrock's bunt to Patten. Hahn beat a bunt and Jones singled to center. C. Jones' mighty heave to the pan held Nick at third until Isbell's rap to short forced him. Donohue skied to Altizer.

Trick by Altizer.

The fourth opened with Altizer's hit to left. Block came up, making a lot of signs to Altizer, which may have stood for a bunt. While Nick was looking for said bunt Pat Dougherty plucked the ball out of the daisies in far left field. A three bagger. Smith's single counted Block. Two runs. Patten forced Smith and Patten was forced on Clymer's safety to right, only the hit didn't count. Patten hung in stays between first and second and Hahn whipped him out to Davis. Ganley walked. Davis made a fine running catch that spoiled a hit for Del.

For quite a while the Senators behaved. They broke out again in the seventh. Ganley singled and stole. Del skied to left. O'Brien poled Ganley home and went to second on the throw. C. Jones fanned and Altizer was thrown out by Isbell. In the ninth, Owen pitching, Clymer singled and was advanced by Ganley. Del's double to left tallied the run. O'Brien made his fourth hit, a dump along the first base line that refused to roll foul. Pete and Del started a double steal. McFarland was set for the heave to second and he let the ball go there, though Del was within a few yards of the pan. O'Brien was safe at second. C. Jones struck out some more and Altizer skied.

Final Effort.

One dead for the locals, Tanny walked and Mac was safe on a fumble at short. Rohe, batting for Owen, forced Mac. Altizer cut in on Hahn's pop fly in Del's territory and Tanny counted on the mixup. Jones was thrown out at first. Score:

NOTES OF THE SOX.

Final exhibition of Cantillon's Dregs this afternoon. Good riddance to them. They pushed the Sox into third place.

Local interest attaches to the arrival of Outfielder Milan to join the Senators. He comes from Wichita, Kas., the home of Mr. Isbell. With the retirement of that athlete and Carrie Nation's recent slump, something must be done to boom the state.

Case Patten is a reversible athlete. Against Altrock he batted left handed and switched to right when Owen went ont the slab.

Billy Sullivan's sore finger was well enough to let him run for Rohe in the ninth. The star backstopper got as far as third base.

Hahn came near throwing Patten out at first base in the seventh. Eddie made a quick field and throw and the runner had no time to lose.

It would have been better for the Sox had the authorities refused to allow Sunday ball at Detroit. What the Tigers did to New York was painful.

The mystery of Frank Smith's hurt leg has been explained. He sat in a poker game coming home from Boston and wrenched a tendon drawing one card. Lucky thing he didn't need two.

Pitcher Lanford, one of Cantillon's newest, is shocked at the open depravity displayed on Sunday in this town. He hails from Greenville, S. C., where the drug stores alone remain open and they sell nothing but pills and ipecacuanha.

While at St. Louis last week a persistent bug tried to drag from Cantillon an expression of opinion on his recent trade of Nill for Pete O'Brien. The bug could not see where the Senators had gained anything. At length Joe responded as follows: "Didn't I get an Irishman for a Dutchman?"

Catcher Heydon enveloped his sturdy frame in a seagoing hack early yesterday morning and lit out without saying a word to Manager Cantillon. The derelict is thought to have gone home disgruntled because of the unhappy ending of Friday's game. Block is the only catcher left in working condition, Blankenship being laid up with a broken finger, while Warner is at home in New York. An effort is being made to locate him by telephone.

CUBS FIRE HEROES; SAVE LIVES; WIN.

Rescue Thousands from Burning Stand at Bridgeport, Then Play Game.

"FOUL" BALLS ALL BURN.

Five Innings Completed While Flames Are Wearing Themselves Out.

BY SY.

Bridgeport, Conn., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Chicago's Cubs hung up another world's record today, breaking one which has remained unchallenged close to 2,000 years. Nero gets his name in the papers once in awhile because he nonchalantly fiddled while Rome was burning. Those Cubs went that Nero many times better today by playing a game of baseball within thirty yards of a burning grand stand from which they had helped 1,000 rooters, many of them women, only a short time before, risking serious injury to prevent a panic and the possible loss of life.

And just as nonchalantly as old Nero fiddled by the light of the flames the Cubs beat Bridgeport's Connecticut league team, 3 to 1, in five innings, which were all that could be played after the fire and before its dying embers failed to give light enough to continue.

Incidentally the Chicago lads, eleven strong, were double barreled heroes in a strenuous day at Steeplechase park, which is Bridgeport's Coney Island and which owes to a lucky wind the fact it was not completely wiped out of existence by fire.

Start of the Fire.

Twenty minutes before the Cub-Bridgeport game was to have started on the old bicycle racing plant at the Long Island sound end of the island a fire started under the bleachers, probably from a carelessly thrown match or cigar butt. There were 3,000 people in the ball park at the time and probably 20,000 on the island resort. The old bicycle grand stand was packed to the limit, as were the bleachers, every stick of which was dry as tinder.

The players were first to see the fire, which was already beyond control at the far end of the bleachers. They gave a warning cry and almost before the occupants could pile out on to the field the bleachers were a mass of flames, which the wind was blowing right toward the main stand. Those packed in the grand stand became panicky and started a crushing rush for the one small exit. But the cooler heads staid the first panic. Players worked like mad tearing down the wire screen and low fence in front of the stand, then helped out the frightened women and frantic men over the railing. No one was hurt beyond a shaking up and a bruise or two and not a woman fainted. This violates all newspaper tradition, but it's true, even if it spoils the story.

How narrow was the escape for hundreds of fans they realized when they saw the entire roof and half the seats of the grand stand burning like tissue paper ten minutes after the first cry of alarm.

Dynamite Checks Flames.

Fortunately for the many other concessions and the thousands on the island resort the wind blew the flames and cinders out into the sound. A steeplechase plant adjoining the ball park also was destroyed, but by the use of dynamite and by tearing down a few outbuildings and part of the baseball fence the fire was checked before the Bridgeport fire department could send help across the ferries. If the wind had been blowing the other way it would have swept the flimsy structures in no time and everybody on the island, including eleven Cubs, would have been driven into the harbor waters to escape.

Play Remarkable Game.

As soon as the fire was checked the two ball clubs faced a dilemma. There were no rain checks issued so the money could not be refunded. Part of the baseball crowd had been driven off the field by the heat and fear of dynamite, and there were great gaps in the fence. Finally it was decided to play five innings and let all see them who could. The playing field was cleared as well as possible and five innings completed in a circle of densely packed humanity. Back of the plate and third base, only thirty yards away, blazed the fallen timbers of the stands and every foul hit back of the catcher became cinders in a minute. As nearly as could be seen under the conditions this is what happened during the game.

Probable Starters for Great Futurity. Second Lipton Yacht Race Today

COLIN OVERTOPS FUTURITY FIELD.

Keene Colt Will Be an Overwhelming Favorite for Big Two Year Old Event.

SOME OF THE ELIGIBLES.

Whitney, Belmont, Burlew, and Others Have Candidates of Ability.

New York, Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Turfmen are already discussing the probable starters for the rich Futurity, which will be run at Sheepshead Bay one week from next Saturday. It will be the twentieth running of America's greatest 2 year old classic and from present indications a big field will go to the barrier.

It is a foregone conclusion James R. Keene's great stable will provide the favorite in the unconquered Commando colt, Colin, whose Futurity impost will be 125 pounds. If Colin had started and won the Hopeful stakes on Saturday his chances for the Futurity would have been greatly increased, but at that experts say if he runs up to the form shown all this season he can hardly be beaten unless by some unexpected fluke. Competent judges say Colin is a greater 2 year old than was Sysonby, whose only defeat was in the Futurity of 1904, when Artful and Tradition finished in front of him.

Colin has started six times and in each instance he has been returned an easy winner. At no time has he been extended, though on several occasions he has shown a tendency to loaf. Beginning with an overnight event at Belmont park, which he captured in a gallop, Mr. Keene's champion has won the National Stallion stakes, the Eclipse stakes, the Great Trial stakes, the Brighton Junior stakes, and the Grand Union Hotel stakes, incidentally taking the measure of all of the best youngsters yet shown with the exception of the filly Natasulga, whose lack of stake engagements has kept her from showing her real worth.

Colin Has Defects.

Colin, in spite of a "box hock" and "bucked shins" which troubled him early in the year, has gone ahead with his races as if he were without a blemish, which naturally makes his achievements all the more remarkable. On the strength of them, therefore, Colin will be an overwhelming favorite for the Futurity, but it is probable Mr. Keene will have at least one other representative in the big race in Peter Quince, a chestnut colt by Commando—Fair Vision, who has not started yet, but whose work in private at Sheepshead Bay is said to have been excellent. Those who have seen Peter Quince under saddle say he is almost as good a colt as Colin and that as soon as Trainer Rowe cuts him loose at Saratoga he will create a sensation in the turf world. Mr. Keene's other Futurity eligibles are the Ben Brush colt Benson, who has started twice, only to disappoint his owner; Anonyma, a filly by Disguise—Optime, a half sister to Sysonby; Masquerade, a filly by Disguise—Splendour; Masque, a colt by Disguise—Rhodesia, and Restigouche, a son of Commando, who has not amounted to much so far.

Many turfmen who saw Frank J. Farrell's colt, Jim Gaffney, win the Hopeful stakes on Saturday were inclined to the belief that with Colin out of the Futurity the son of Golden Garter—Miss Maxim, a full brother to the noted stake winner Golden Maxim, would come near winning the big race at the bay.

Other Eligibles.

H. P. Whitney has a number of eligibles, some of which have not been seen in public as yet. Bar None, Adriana, and Stamina all have shown some quality, but Bar None has been badly beaten by Colin on several occasions. Burgher, a colt by Hamburg—Hurley Burley, a full brother to the famous Burgomaster, is said to be a good one, but Trainer Rogers has been taking his time with him. Jersey Lightning is a filly by Hamburg-Daisy F., while Yorkville Beau is a colt by Hamburg out of Yorkville Belle. Bonnie Star, a filly by Star Shoot, is also eligible.

August Belmont probably will start his colts Antæus, by Henry of Navarre—Aunot Lyle, and Fair Play, by Hastings—Fairy Gold.

If John E. Madden has a sleeper in training for the big race nobody outside of himself has a line on the situation. Fred Burlew's Chapultepec is a sure starter, while the Newcastle stable's eligibles are Big Chief and The Squire. John Sanford has Fort Johnson, a colt by Chuctanunda; Onolassa, by Isidor, and a Clifford colt named Chief Brant. R. T. Wilson Jr. believes he has a possible winner in Beaucoup, a colt by Ornament—Ollie Belle, which has been going great guns in his work and has shown much improvement over his early spring form. The Oneck stable's Ben Fleet, full brother to Highball, and William Lakeland's Question Mark, a colt by Goldcrest—Roseban, are both receiving preparations for the famous classic.

So far the racing at Empire City has been kept free from scandal. The stewards have been alert and have seen to it that there is little chance for manipulation.

The total absence of "shark money" also has made things easy for the form players. Much comment has been made as to the predominance of western turfmen at Yonkers.

TURF GOSSIP FROM THE SPA.

Dubois Figures Nealon a Costly Purchase—Jim Gaffney May Be Overrated.

Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—William Dubois, who purchased the Suburban winner, Nealon, at the Durnell sale Friday afternoon, is figuring now that the Bannockburn horse cost him $50,000, instead of $14,000, the purchase price. To Nealon is attributed the defeat of Dubois' crack 3 year old, Charles Edward, in the Great Republic stake on Saturday. The two horses were being led around outside their stables Saturday morning, it is said, and Nealon kicked Charles Edward. The latter did not show any lameness and therefore was sent out to run for the rich prize later in the day, but he was utterly unable to run his race and was beaten off in wretchedly slow time for high class horses, even though the track was not good.

On his form at Brighton Beach last month, where Charles Edward broke the track's records for a mile, a mile and a furlong, and a mile and a half, he should have won the Great Republic stakes in a romp, and the $17,000 first money that he did not win, less $1,000 for running third, now is charged up to Nealon by their owner.

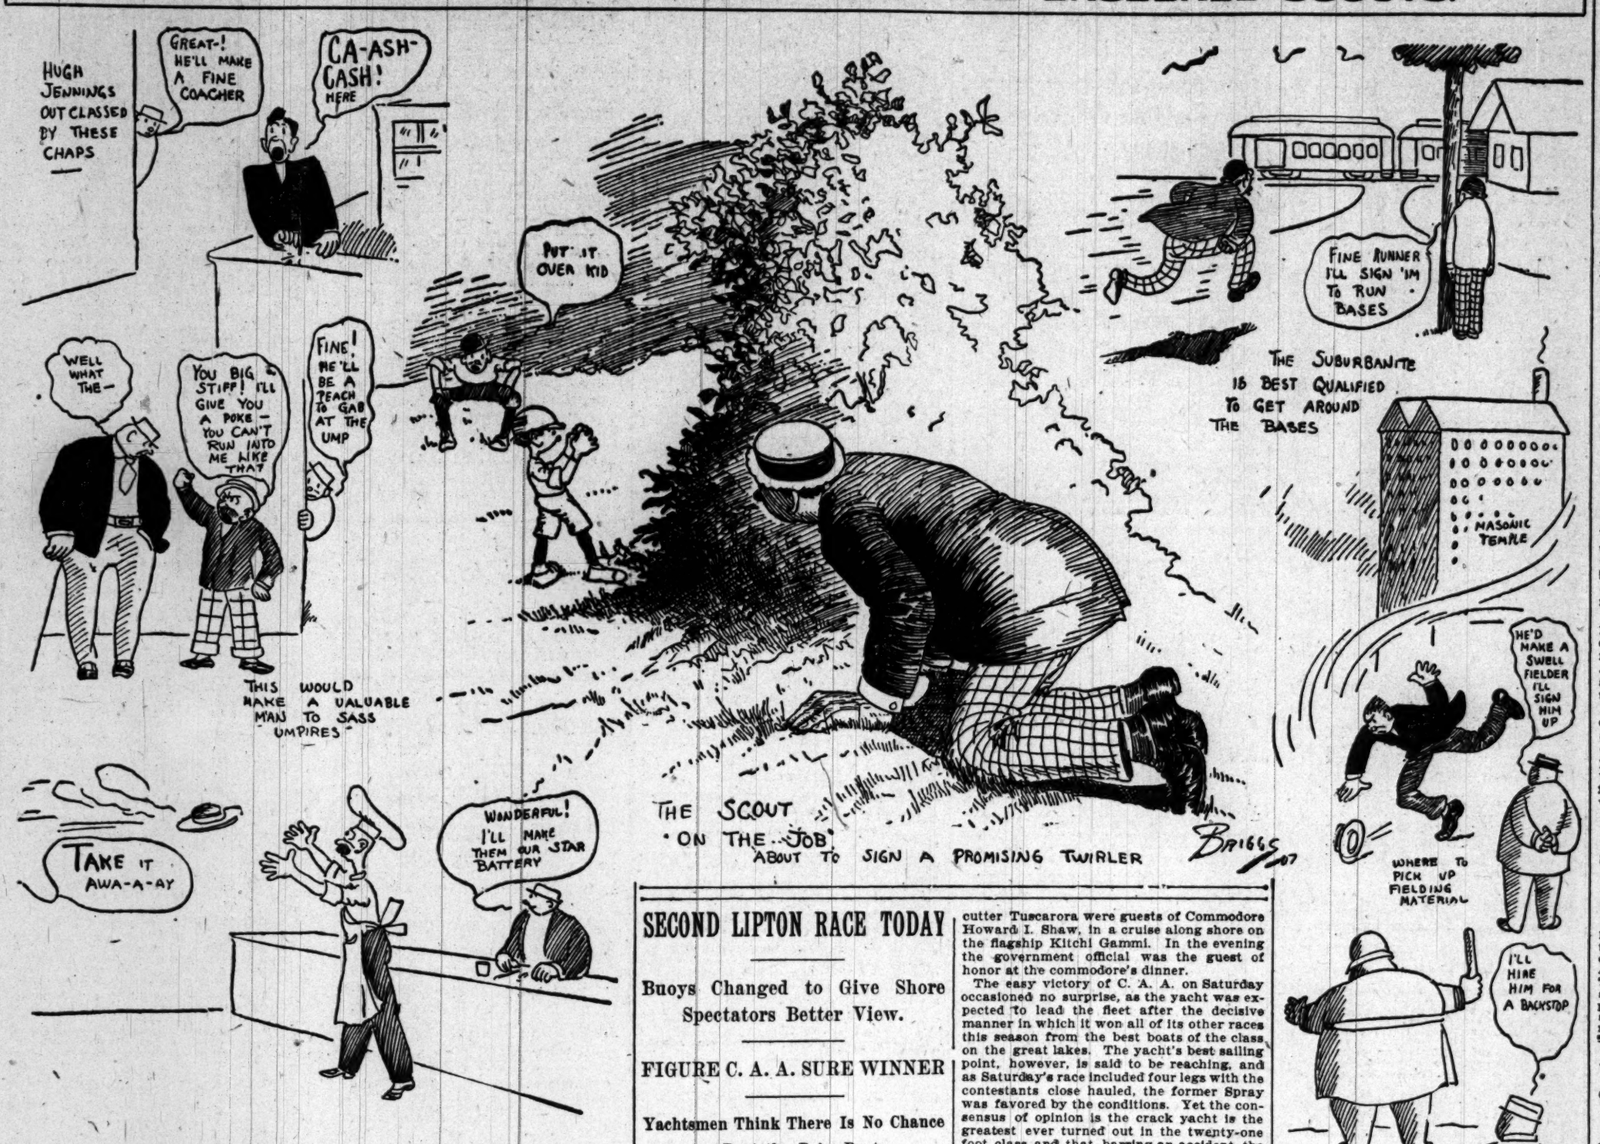

Jim Gaffney's clever win of the Hopeful stakes on Saturday has set Frank Farrell to thinking seriously about winning the still richer Futurity on the last day of the month, but it is a good bet the colt will not finish in the money when the $40,000 race is run at Sheepshead Bay, unless misfortune should fall upon Colin, Fair Play, Peter Quince, and others. In the Futurity Jim Gaffney will have to carry 130 pounds instead of 115, under which he won the Hopeful. He does not draw any "breeding allowance," because both his sire and dam had produced winners before the 1st of January, 1905. In contrast Colin draws five pounds' allowance, which will reduce his weight to 125. Fair Play, which was trying to concede ten pounds to and ran second to Jim Gaffney, will get into the Futurity with only 119 pounds, and therefore will be in receipt of eleven from Farrell's colt.

That the Saratoga meeting has not suffered a particle from the much talked of opposition at the Empire City track is acknowledged now on every hand, still that does not waver the Jockey club powers in their opinion that New York does not need racing through the month of August, even if a race meeting at Yonkers can be made to pay. Neither does it change the Jockey club's opinion concerning the method by which the Empire City promoters have broken into the charmed circle of eastern racing dates.

The coming week's sport here should be quite up to the standard of its two predecessors and, as usual, it will wind up with a grand array of rich events next Saturday. One of them will be the Saratoga cup, which seems likely to have an exceptionally good field this year. At least eight good horses are being pointed for this big race, at a mile and three-quarters, and it should develop into a grand struggle, different from last year's easy win by Go Between over Sir Huon.

The destruction on Thursday of Thomas Hitchcock's great horse, Good and Plenty, marked the passing of undoubtedly the grandest and most popular steeplechaser ever bred and raced on this continent. He was a great favorite with racing patrons of all classes.

RIVALRY IS GROWING KEEN AMONG THE BASEBALL SCOUTS.

LACROSSE HONORS ALL EVEN.

Calumets Beat the Shamrocks, 12 to 3, and Comiskey Cup Race Is a Triple Tie.

	Played.	Won.	Lost.	Goals for.	Goals against.
Shamrocks	4	2	2	27	27
Chicagos	4	2	2	33	31
Calumets	4	2	2	30	32

Contrary to general expectations, the Calumet lacrosse team found the Shamrocks easy picking in their second match in the Comiskey cup series at the west side ball park yesterday, winning 12 to 3. This puts the three teams on even terms, with two-thirds of the race over.

There was only one period in the contest yesterday when the Shamrocks seemed to have any show. From the first face-off the Calumets, who were reinforced by Young, Collins, and C. Donnelley, got away at top speed, and through the opening stages they petered through the weak defense line of the Shamrocks. Five goals came in succession for the cup holders, Donnelley getting two, Milne two, and Culbertson one. However, before the whistle blew the Shamrocks counted twice, O'Connor beating Barrett with a nice shot and Knapp slamming the ball through from short range a few minutes later.

Run Up Goals Quickly.

After McKay had stopped shots from Milne and Culbertson in the second period, combined work by Gourgeon, O'Connor, and Knapp enabled the last named to count once more, and it proved the final goal made by his side. Anthony twisted his knee and retired. Harris and Young were penalized, leaving the Calumets with nine men, but the Shamrocks were unable to break through. Donnelley hit the top of the Shamrock goal with a long shot, but the ball bounced out. Capt. Kelly broke up two dangerous attacks. Nearing the end O'Malley twisted his knee and was out of the rest of the game, the side missing his play greatly.

The opening stages of the third period were marked by some great defense by the champions. The Shamrock attack men worked like beavers, but were blocked off. Then the champions, who had been weak in attacking, woke up. Milne hit the goal post and Culbertson, getting the ball on the rebound, put it through. Five minutes later West transferred to Milne and he brought the Calumet total to 7.

Final Period a Procession.

The final period was a procession, Donnelley scoring in a minute. The Shamrock defense, which was greatly weakened by the absence of Grogan, could not cope with the varied attack of the champions, who several times had clean shots from short range. The last goal was one of the best, Culbertson tossing a fast shot across the goal mouth which Milne dashed for and slammed into the cage. Lineup:

Calumets [12].		Shamrocks [3].
Barrett	Goal	McKay
Young	Point	Masterson
Collins	Cover point	Klein
Anthony	First defense	Kelly

SECOND LIPTON RACE TODAY

Buoys Changed to Give Shore Spectators Better View.

Yachtsmen Think There Is No Chance to Beat the Price Boat.

BY JOHN G. DE LONG.

The races for the Sir Thomas Lipton competitive cup are to be resumed this afternoon, when the second contest of the series will be sailed by the five yachts which competed on Saturday. None of the boats stretched canvas yesterday, the day being spent by the crews in "fanning" at the Columbia Yacht club.

Today's contest is to be to windward or leeward and return, three miles to the leg, and repeat. Chairman Warren has decided to change the starting buoys by shifting them farther inshore in order that spectators on land may be given a better view of the race. Commodore Simonton, who heads the Jackson park syndicate and handles the yacht of the same name, is confident he will be able to make even a better showing today than he did on Saturday against C. A. A. Mr. Simonton asserts Jackson park's weakest point is reaching, and that the former Milwaukee boat must have windward work in order to show at its best. The boat will also do better in a breeze than in light air.

The start this afternoon will be at 2 o'clock and the guest boat Petoskey, which will follow the race, is scheduled to leave the dock at the foot of Randolph street at 1:30. A feature following the finish of the contest will be a marine parade of the contestants and attending sailboats, power craft, and excursion steamers. The line will form at Van Buren street gap and sail to Twelfth street, returning to the Columbia club, inside the government breakwater.

Tonight a theater party will be given at the Colonial at which the crews of the racing yachts, judges of the races, and commodores of the local clubs will be the guests of the Columbia Yacht club.

A feature yesterday was a reception at the clubhouse in honor of Capt. Fox, head of the United States revenue cutter service, who is inspecting government work. In the afternoon Capt. Fox and the officers of the revenue cutter Tuscarora were guests of Commodore Howard I. Shaw, in a cruise along shore on the flagship Kitchi Gammi. In the evening the government official was the guest of honor at the commodore's dinner.

The easy victory of C. A. A. on Saturday occasioned no surprise, as the yacht was expected to lead the fleet after the decisive manner in which it won all of its other races this season from the best boats of the class on the great lakes. The yacht's best sailing point, however, is said to be reaching, and as Saturday's race included four legs with the contestants close hauled, the former Spray was favored by the conditions. Yet the consensus of opinion is the crack yacht is the greatest ever turned out in the twenty-one foot class and that, barring an accident, the Price syndicate should succeed in winning the Lipton cup for the Michigan avenue club. Fred Price was being complimented on all sides for the manner in which he handled the boat.

Thence they will go to Hamburg, Berlin, and Hanover. At the last named place Emperor William will receive them.

FT. WAYNE FIGHT PROVES A CARD.

Much Interest Shown in Tomorrow Night's Yanger-McFarland Contest.

BENNY SEEMS CONFIDENT.

Declares He Will Not Make Another Ring Match if He Loses This One.

The Yanger-McFarland fight tomorrow night at Fort Wayne is bound to draw a good crowd, the match having stirred up an unusual amount of talk, besides being the most promising held in the vicinity of Chicago in a long time. Reports last night from Fort Wayne were that there was a good sale of seats yesterday in that city, while tickets for the special train that is going from Chicago have been sold in large numbers.

Both the principals are at Fort Wayne, Yanger having been in training there for some time at the St. Joe club, in the outskirts of that city, while McFarland, accompanied by Manager Harry Gilmore Jr. and several others, went to the Indiana city Saturday night.

To his manager, Jack Curley, Yanger said yesterday: "If I don't win it won't be because of improper training. I feel fit as a man could. In fact, I feel as if I could lick Joe Gans. If Packey stays the limit I will be a disappointed man. If he beats me I'll never try for another match."

The St. Joe club announces it has made every arrangement to handle a big crowd, and also that the first bout positively will be put on at 8:15, so that the program can be completed on schedule time and out of town spectators accommodated. The train which runs from Chicago lands passengers in Fort Wayne within two blocks of the arena.

Atlanta's team and Memphis are leading in the Southern league race.

WHEAT BEARS ARE WINNERS

Hold Good Advantage at Close of a Nervous Week.

STRIKE HURTS GRAIN TRADE.

Outside Business Is Cut Off by Crippled Wire Service.

Handicapped in all its branches by the telegraphers' strike, last week's wheat market was resolved almost entirely into a local scalping affair. From start to finish marked nervousness characterized operations. Prices covered a moderately broad range, but at all stages the bears had the advantage. There were times when the bulls made matters interesting, but their support lacked the wind necessary to keep the sails of opportunity filled. Week end quotations showed net declines of 1¼@2¾c, as compared to the final prices of the preceding week, September being weakest.

On the initial day of the period prices suffered sensational setbacks, the September dropping more than 3½c in hurry up time. There was enough in the news to inspire bulls to the rescue, and as a result the loss was trimmed before the final gong sounded respite. Toward midweek the market gave a much better account of itself, stimulating influences being a pronounced improvement in the export demand for grain and flour, a material betterment of the domestic inquiry for the breadstuff, unfavorable though not fully confirmed crop and weather advices from the northwest, and harvest impeding precipitations in important sections of the winter wheat country.

All Eyes on the Northwest.

Foremost interest naturally is centered on developments in the spring wheat territory. Owing to the crippled wire service the trade has been able to get only an inkling of the true state of affairs on both sides of the international border. The diversity of opinion expressed in the communications received served to keep the traders in a stew of uncertainty. Calgary, in the northwestern part of Canada, stirred up bullish enthusiasm toward midweek by reporting temperatures at the freezing point. Scanty weather bureau reports from that section failed to confirm the report, although it was quite generally accepted that the weather was cold and not favorable to the rapid progress of the plant. Manitoba also managed to get word past the wire blockade to the effect that the situation was far from promising. Late in the week reports were more assuring to the bears, temperatures scaling higher, and the plant showing a healthy appearance. Unless frosts pounce upon spring wheat within the near future, bears argue, the plant will be safely beyond the danger line.

Kansas Report Is Bearish.

The Kansas report, issued Saturday, was given bearish construction, inasmuch as it indicated that the total wheat yield in the Sunflower state would be 70,000,000 bu. The government in its August statement estimated the crop at 67,000,000 bu. Last year the state turned at 93,000,000 bu. The movement to primary points showed materially in excess of those of a year ago, although late in the week there was some indication that there would be a lighter movement in the southwest in the near future. St. Louis reported scanty acceptances of bids sent into the country, with the general cash demand showing increasing strength. There also was a suggestion of a letup in the movement to the northwestern points.

The strike trouble has killed practically all outside business, the absence of which has been a card in the hands of the bears. It also undoubtedly has militated strongly against the export traffic, inasmuch as it has prevented prompt communication between buyer and seller.

Corn Displays Strong Undertone.

Considering the sharp depressions in the wheat market, the corn market, only moderately active at best, gave a good account of itself last week. While the movement compared favorably to that of a year ago at this time, it was not sufficient to result in bolstering stocks to burdensome proportions. The shipping demand at times showed evidence of picking up, but the lack of telegraphic facilities went far toward limiting business actually done with the east, which is said to be much more in need of the grain than it is willing to give the trade to believe. Throughout the week there was a steady inrunning of persistent reports of unfavorable crop progress in important sections of the belt. The southwest reported that the recent hot, dry spell had wrought injury that only ideal conditions from now until harvest could offset. At best, argue the bulls, the total outturn of the cereal this year will not be more than two-thirds of the showing of last year. Final prices of the week showed net declines of only ⅛@¼c, as compared to those of the previous week.

Bullish Views on Maize.

E. W. Wagner had this to say on corn: "The position of corn is directly the reverse of wheat. There is no stock worth mentioning to carry; there is no expense for carrying it, and the growing crop cannot exceed two-thirds of the last one. It is, at a time when it has become the most valuable grain in the world for all around purposes, the food crop of least promise, as it now looks. It ramifies into other food supplies as does no other grain in the world. It is the grain for which there is the narrowest margin of substitution, and is the one closest connected with and doing most for the general prosperity of the country. I believe it is this short crop that is halting the saturnalia of paper prosperity in Wall street. The shortage in corn is three times the shortage in oats. The use of it makes it three times as great a necessity as oats, when both are scarce. The corn is yet to have its turn in the rise that has followed a general shortage of all crops. Buy some, keep it, and be in it when its long delayed turn comes."

Oats End Week with Gains.

Oats reached the end of the week with a better showing than any of the other grains. Final quotations Saturday showed a net gain of about 1c as compared to those of the previous week, but they were materially under the best figures of the period. Persistent and almost general reports of poor crop prospects were the big cards in the hands of the bulls, among whom are numbered men who have engineered many successful bull deals in the cereal. Receipts here were moderately large, increasing as the week grew older, but the general grading was far from satisfactory. Stocks in all directions are at low ebb, some important sections being practically bare of the grain. While it is argued that poor quality oats favor lower prices, some maintain that with such stuff the amount of deliverable grain cannot become burdensome. The week witnessed the establishing of new high prices for the crop, the September at one time touching 46⅞c, and the May 46½c. If the present lofty level is maintained for any length of time it is believed that the farmers will be induced to ship enormous quantities to market.

Provisions Dull and Narrow.

Extreme dullness marked operations in the provision market last week. Prices moved within narrow bounds, and there was practically no notable feature attached to the shaping of them. Final quotations Saturday showed moderately under those of the previous week. The run of hogs was not considered burdensome, the figures on some days showing under those of the corresponding days last year. There was some improvement in the demand for manufactured products. The provision trade is not willing to make much of a move in either direction until more is known of the corn crop. Some traders attached bullish significance to the heavy run of cattle at Kansas City, arguing that that meant a verification of the unfavorable corn crop reports from the southwest. The crippled wire service naturally had a depressing effect on the market.

NEW YORK STOCKS IRREGULAR.

Net Losses Shown for Saturday's Session, Despite Some Rally Near the Close.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—[Special.]—General weakness and an irregular tone marked yesterday's short session on the stock exchange, and many of the most active features registered declines of a point or more on the day's dealings in spite of a rally at the close.

There was little in the day's news to encourage commitments for the rise. On the contrary, aside from the statements of the commercial agencies, which reported trade expansion and manufacturing activity, developments were generally unfavorable.

The London markets were weak, following a liquidating movement in Paris and elsewhere on the continent. London also sold heavily of the United States Steel issues. It was announced that a date had been fixed for the resumption of the inquiry in this city against the Standard Oil company.

A heavy selling movement in the first hour caused special weakness in Union Pacific, Amalgamated Copper, Consolidated Gas, Delaware and Hudson, and Brooklyn Transit. As an indication of the extent of the movement, declines of 3½ in General Electric, 3 in Pullman Palace Car, and 5½ in Bethlehem may be cited.

The bank statement was disappointing in that it showed a cash loss of over $2,800,000, whereas a slight gain was expected. Legal reserves of the banks are now $9,294,000, as against $7,101,000 in the corresponding week last year, and $9,355,000 in the same month of 1905.

United States registered 2 per cent bonds and the 4s registered declined ⅛ on call during the week. Total sales, par value, were $924,000.

INDUSTRIALS TO ASK LOANS

Credit Extensions May Be Feature of Fall Market.

WILL UNCLE SAM HELP OUT?

Believed Government May Put Out Money as Relief Measure.

What promises to be a distinct feature of the coming autumn money market will be a demand for renewal of accommodation by overexpanded manufacturing and mercantile concerns.

It is the experience of a number of banks that their correspondents in the country have been unusually liberal buyers of commercial paper, and paper making concerns have been encouraged by this fact to increase their liabilities.

The fact that the Pope Manufacturing company is in the hands of a receiver because of difficulty in borrowing funds and the further fact that the Allis-Chalmers company stock was attacked in the market on the theory that it would find difficulty in borrowing funds and the further fact that the Consolidated Gas company of New York paid between 6 and 7 per cent for a twelve months' loan indicate strongly the needs of industrial concerns.

There is reason to believe that the treasury department is in a position to offer considerable aid to the money market. The funds called in July may be again put out when greater need for them shall exist. But the money outlook as a whole is one not encouraging so far as the year 1907 is concerned. There is a good demand not only in the United States but in Germany, England, and France.

The Bank of England has already advanced its rate ½ per cent and the Imperial Bank of Germany is expected to increase its rate to 7 per cent.

New York Bankers Apprehensive.

In New York the bankers are apprehensive over the outlook. They have, however, diverse interests. What they may lose on cheap money they gain on advancing stocks, and vice versa. Chicago institutions are necessarily influenced by the New York advices.

The stock market has shown the lack of buying power more forcibly than at any time in ten years, for with quotations at better than bargain counter prices there is no buying by large interests. The market is made largely by traders. Persons who are supposed to have surplus capital with which to purchase securities at tempting prices do not buy. They either expect lower quotations or are lacking what they may deem sufficient surplus to put into investments. It is necessarily a poor outlook from the bull viewpoint.

Occasionally better feeling obtains when it is thought that the attitude of the government toward corporations accused of violating laws is to be modified. The exigencies, however, of the political campaign coming on next year do not promise that the party in power will, for political reasons, feel like abating a popular policy.

Bank Statement.

The bank statement Saturday was a poor one, showing a loss in cash of $2,828,300, and a decrease in deposits of $17,447,300. The only really favorable feature in the figures was the contraction in loans amounting to $14,231,200. The figures follow:

Reserve increased		$ 1,533,525
Loans decreased		14,231,200
Specie decreased		2,358,400

Chicago Stocks.

In the local stock market a general weakness obtained. Swift & Co. shares gradually worked lower. There was no pronounced support and the stock came on the market in small lots.

Diamond Match was also weak, as was City railway and National Biscuit shares. The competition of the latter company continues to grow stronger and is developing along well directed lines. It has developed to such an extent that all the companies are accused of reducing the weight of their 5 cent package until it contains between five and six ounces as against eight ounces, the original weight. By experimenting the goods have been made lighter though occupying substantially the same space.

The street railroad shares were dull throughout the week. It was thought after the plan of reorganization had been fairly outlined there would be improvement in the several issues. This, however, has failed to take place.

Trade in Wholesale Lines.

The operators' strike has interfered with the distributing trade to a moderate extent, but chiefly with respect to going forward with some ventures planned which have been temporarily delayed. On the whole, there has been a healthy tone to the trade and conditions seem generally to be on as sound a basis as a year ago.

The gross earnings of the railroads radiating from this center show that the distribution of general merchandise of all kinds is being carried on in enormous volume, exceeding all previous totals. Wools, hides, and leather goods of all kinds have met with a good demand throughout the week. Heavy hardware and agricultural implements have sold readily and orders for forward shipment have been heavy.

Resume Buying of Rails.

Pig iron again was inclined to be dull and weak, but there was no material change in values. Finished steel and iron products were in good request. Some of the railroad corporations have entered the market as rail buyers and several orders for 5,000 to 10,000 tons have been placed. Another moderate decline was made in the price of copper metal, lake being quoted at 18¾c.

Country buyers have been present in increasing numbers in the local markets, and the volume of their purchases indicates that there is no uneasiness felt on their part in regard to business conditions.

CHICAGO TO NEW YORK 3 HOURS IS SCHEDULE OF AIRSHIP MAN.

Inventor at Work for Years on Flying Machine Claims to Have Secured Greater Safety than by Rail.

Denver, Colo., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—"Weight, 100 tons; speed, Chicago to New York in three hours; capacity, 100 passengers at $1 a journey; recommendations, greater safety than by rail, no dust, no jolting, cheap, and speedy."

These are the inducements offered by George L. O. Davidson, who for years has been at work constructing a flying machine. He now says he is almost ready to start the overland route and act as sky pilot for the birdlike structure he has invented.

A trust deed was taken out yesterday in the office of the county clerk and recorded, in which Davidson, Arthur M. Eppstein, and L. O. Parker are named as trustees for the company's property. According to the deed the company possesses $999,995 worth of property and $5 in cash in the treasury.

The property, it is claimed, consists of an airship shed at Montclair, an airship in course of construction there, patents, and the $5. The company has been incorporated. A circular issued by Davidson says that the stock is now ready for the market. One-half of the $1,000,000 worth of shares are held by Lord Armstrong of the English engineering firm of Armstrong, Whitworth & Co., of London, says the circular.

Davidson has long been known for his work in attempting to perfect an airship. He claims to have done so now. His ship has no balloon, and is heavier than air. It is kept up by two horizontal rotary wheels, steered vertically by a tail which is lowered or raised as the ship descends or rises, and guided laterally by a beaklike rudder in front which is turned to the right or left. The rotary wheels lift as they revolve, pushing the ship up.

LEASE READY; WILL GO TO JUDGE

Grosscup Soon to Consider Form of Transfer of Traction Properties—Now on Way.

The New York lawyers representing the Chicago Railways company will arrive in Chicago this morning and bring with them the form of lease whereby the Union Traction receivers are to transfer possession of that company's properties to the new corporation.

The lease will be submitted to Judge Grosscup for approval and after he has made what corrections in it he thinks necessary, will be duly signed, sealed, and delivered.

The judge also will listen to the petition of the Merchants' Loan and Trust company of this city and the Central Trust company of New York for leave to appeal from his recent decision.

This is expected to be granted as a matter of course, as an early decision in the higher courts on the points the trust companies raise is wanted on all hands.

DEVICE TO SAVE HUMAN LIFE.

Invention of Pittsburg Man Intended to Prevent Explosions in Blast Furnaces.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—J. H. Meissner of this city has completed a device which he believes will do away with explosions at blast furnaces, which have resulted in the loss of so many lives and destruction of so much property in this city recently.

Explosions are caused by ore dust accumulating on the interior walls of the furnaces. These accumulations finally fall of their own weight, causing the molten metal to explode.

Meissner's device consists of an attachment for the interior of a furnace, which revolves around the interior wall, scraping off the dust as fast as it accumulates. It is claimed furnaces can be easily equipped with them and at small expense. Jones and Laughlin, who have been particularly unfortunate with explosions, expect to give the device trial.

The president will land at 10:45 for the shore ceremonies, which will include an address. He will reëmbark on the Mayflower about 4 o'clock and it is expected that he will reach Oyster Bay on the return the following afternoon.

FIRE DESTROYS STEEL PLANT.

Works of Cumberland, Md., Go Up in Flames, Involving Loss of $350,000.

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 19.—The plant of the Cumberland Steel company was tonight destroyed by fire of unknown origin. The loss is estimated at $350,000, with insurance of $100,000. Ninety men are thrown out of work. The plant produced accurate steel castings, and is said to have been the only one of the sort in the world. The company has offices in London, and Paris, and in all the leading cities of the United States. The buildings occupied an area of 350x200 feet.

HOLD HOPE FOR PRISONERS

Maude Ballington Booth and Son Utter Words of Cheer.

ADDRESS JOLIET'S INMATES.

Twenty Year Old Boy Studies Mother's Methods Helping Fallen.

Prisoners in the Joliet penitentiary were inspired with hope and good cheer yesterday at two services conducted by Mrs. Maude Ballington Booth in the prison chapel.

Mrs. Ballington Booth's 20 year old son, Lieut. Charles D. Booth, who is in charge of the prison work of the Volunteers of America, assisted his mother in the services. It was Lieut. Booth's first visit to Joliet penitentiary.

The first service was held for the benefit of the members of the Prisoners' League of Volunteers, which was organized by Mrs. Booth some time ago.

Mrs. Booth's Son Preaches.

Lieut. Booth preached at the league meeting, speaking on the twenty-third psalm. He gave a clear exposition of the most profitable method of reading the bible.

"It is not what or how much you read the holy scriptures, but the manner in which you read them and the benefit you gain from your reading that counts," said Lieut. Booth. "Hearken unto the voice of God when he speaks to you through his word. Jesus loves you, remembers you, and wishes you well."

Many Hear Mrs. Booth.

At the general meeting which followed Mrs. Booth was the principal speaker. Nearly 1,400 prisoners attended the general meeting. Mrs. Booth took her text from a song entitled "Forgotten," sung by one of the convicts.

"My dear friends, though the world outside of these walls may have forgotten you, God has not forgotten that you were made in his image," said Mrs. Booth. "The mercy of Jesus, our Lord, is great, and if that were possible he has greater sympathy for you than for those who have every opportunity to receive salvation and neglect to do so. Be of good cheer, my dear friends."

Mrs. Booth, Lieut. Booth, and Maj. McCormick returned to Chicago in the afternoon. She and her son left in the evening for Leavenworth, Kas.

Lieut. Booth accompanies his mother for the purpose of learning the methods of Mrs. Booth in the prison work started by her years ago.

RELIGIOUS FESTIVAL IS HELD.

Dedication of the New Decorations of Church Followed by Gala Scene in Twenty-second Place.

Interest in the Italian district on the south side centered yesterday about Maria Incoronata Catholic church, Alexander street and Wentworth avenue, where a double celebration was held.

In the afternoon dedicatory services for the new decorations of the church were held, Bishop Muldoon officiating. The decorations comprise an elaborate design of fresco, embodying the portraits in relief of Jesus, the Virgin Mary, and the apostles. The Rev. Father R. A. Lorenzoli, pastor of the church, and the Rev. Father Gambera assisting, celebrated masses.

In the evening Twenty-second place, which is a short block north of the church, presented a gala scene. A festival for the purpose of raising money to pay for the new church improvements occupied the street for a block.
